U. S. Warships Set Sail for the Middle East

PLAN FOUR-LANE WEBSTER ROAD

Jordan Gets New Premier

By UNITED PRESS

The powerful U.S. Sixth Fleet moved into the war - threatened eastern Mediterranean today on urgent pre-dawn orders from Washington.

The super - carrier Forrestal, with the latest jet aircraft aboard, headed the fleet units which upped anchor in French and Italian ports so suddenly that some men on shore leave were left behind.

Washington diplomatic sources described the move as "precautionary" but they left no doubt of the gravity with which officials regarded the power struggle raging inside Jordan and the possibility it could engulf the whole Middle East in war.

As young King Hussein struggled to preserve his government against a Leftist-led revolt, here were the day's major developments:

—Premier Hussein Khalidi, a moderate, bowed to Leftist threats and violence and resigned.

New Government Formed

—King Hussein called on former Premier Ibrahim Hashem, a firm friend of the West, to form a new government.

—Hussein ordered his army to take over Jordan's towns and cities, declared martial law, imposed a strict curfew, and made an appeal to his people for peace and order. He also was reported to have ordered Syrian troops out of the country immediately or be forced out by his Iraqi allies.

—Troops from Saudi Arabia and Iraq were reported to have taken up positions shielding the Jordanian capital of Amman from the pro-Communist Palestine section of the country on the west and from pro-Communist Syria in the north.

—The White House in Washington issued a statement Wednesday night that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "regard the independence and integrity of Jordan as vital." They conferred by telephone late Wednesday and again this morning, with the President in Augusta, Ga., and Dulles in Washington, indicating a possible first military test of the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Mideast might be coming up.

—The British Foreign Office announced in London it considers Jordan's stability "essential" to Middle Eastern peace and that it is consulting "other nations" on the new crisis.

Troubles Pile Up for Valley Man in Fraud

Troubles continued to pile up for William Glick, of Charleroi, a partner in the Crown Sales Mon-Valley Credit Co. who is free on bond on charges of misusing funds of the firm.

Today he faced 54 additional counts of fraudulent conversion and false pretense.

The new charges were filed with Alderman James Dallasandro in Washington, Pa. by L. D. Gregg, regional director of the Seaboard Acceptance Co., of Pittsburgh.

Glick now is a patient in the Veterans Administration Hospital at Pittsburgh.

Grand jury action on seven previous charges pending against him have been postponed.

Glick was accused by his partner, Simon Felser, of misuse of $32,000 in funds of the credit firm, forging and wrongfully signing checks in the amount of $1,785. Glick has posted $17,500 bond.

Felser is free on $1,500 bond to answer fraud charges brought by Ellen Knatick and Elsta Tachich.

Ike Urges Congress For Laws to Halt Labor Racketeering

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP) — President Eisenhower, after a conference here with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, called on Congress today for new legislation to eliminate labor racketeering.

The President called racketeering in the labor movement "an abomination which must be eliminated."

"We don't want to do anything that will hamper the American labor movement in its legitimate objective," Mitchell said after talking with the President.

"But we do want to help labor clean up its own house," Mitchell added.

The secretary's conference with the President on new anti-racketeering legislation stemmed from recent Senate investigating committee disclosures involving Dave Beck and his International Teamsters Union.

Eisenhower, in a special statement following his meeting with Mitchell, said, "Labor racketeering, like corruption anywhere, is an abomination which must be eliminated if and wherever it occurs."

"Any officer and employee of labor—and it appears there have been a few—who abuse the power and trust imposed on them, are not fit to hold union offices," the President said. "The American working man and woman deserves from labor leadership high standards of trust and fidelity."

The President said the corruption "on the part of a few should not obscure the fact that the vast majority of those connected with organized labor are decent and honest Americans and that responsible labor leadership is moving speedily toward protecting their members from any such abuses, as far as their means permit."

Mitchell, in a press conference after his talk with the President, said he thought the Taft-Hartley labor - management law was deficient in the protection of the worker or union member. He said he was commissioned by the Chief Executive to draft a new administration approach to laws requiring public record of salaries paid to union officials, the condition of their treasuries and the administration of these funds.

The President stated at a news conference last April 17 that: "There ought to be some legal means of looking into these things in advance so that kind of abuse of labor (as alleged before the Senate committee) cannot take place."

The meeting with Mitchell, announced two days ago, momentarily diverted the President's close attention to the crisis besetting the new anti-Communist government of Jordan in the Middle East.

The President issued a statement Wednesday night warning Jordan's Communist-tinged neighbors that the United States considers Jordan's independence and integrity to be "vital."

The statement, made with up-to-the-minute telephone advice from Secretary of State Dulles in Washington, restated a pledge of U.S. military aid to any Middle East nation asking for help in combatting Communism.

Award Contract For Wreaths for Veterans Graves

A contract for 190 wreaths for decorating of veterans graves in the Monessen area was awarded last night to Monessen Florist.

The award was made by the Monessen Memorial Day Committee, a group composed of members of the Thomas McKee Post 28, American Legion and Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The wreaths will be placed, along with an American flag, on the graves of Monessen veterans in a ceremony to be held several days prior to the annual observance of Memorial Day, Thursday, May 30.

The complete program for the observance to be held at Grandview Cemetery on Memorial Day will be announced following the next meeting of the committee, Wednesday, May 8.

Trains to Halt At Two Fayette County Crossings

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission has ordered both the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads to halt their freight trains at two grade crossings in Everson, Fayette County, and to have crewmen precede the trains over the crossing.

The commission action followed a public hearing in Uniontown Tuesday in an investigation to determine whether additional protection was needed at the intersections, used as part of a detour on Jones St.

A truck driver was killed and a woman was seriously injured in a collision with a freight train on the PRR crossing Jan. 10.

The PUC said it took prompt action because testimony at the hearing indicated "that it was necessary in view of the exceptionally heavy traffic flow on Jones St. under present conditions."

Leader to Fight for Program

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader announced today he will "fight" for his administration's proposed comprehensive college scholarship program by taking the issue directly to the people.

Leader, in a grim mood over the cool reception given his program by legislative leaders in the Republican-controlled General Assembly, said he would make a tour of the state and appear on television to drum up support for the plan at the grass-roots level.

The program, which he outlined to the Legislature recently, calls for award of 5,000 competitive scholarships annually to high school seniors, creation of a revolving loan fund for able and needy students, and establishment of junior colleges where adequate college facilities are not currently available. It would be financed by a one cent soft drink tax or "any other tax program" adequate to carry the cost.

"Some people are not entirely convinced that I'm dead serious about this program for higher education," he told his weekly news conference. "I'm—in fact I'll fight for it. If I wasn't, I wouldn't have taken the risk of putting a tax program with it."

Leader frankly admitted that some of the influential members of his own Democratic party were opposed to the program. And he conceded that he "did not have solid support" in Democratic legislative ranks for the use of the proposed pop tax to finance it.

Needs Public Support

"It is a program that must go right to the people," he said. "We must build public support for it. If we can't, I doubt that we can get legislative support."

The governor said he would start his statewide appeal just as soon as a proper schedule could be set up.

Asked whether it had not been his understanding that the proposed pop tax was to be held back to finance a bonus for Korean War veterans, the governor replied:

"There was no understanding on my part on any tax."

When asked what tax could be used for the bonus, if the pop tax went for higher education, he said: "I have no idea what the Republicans have in mind."

The governor said a question was raised regarding the possible unconstitutionality of the program and that the Justice Department ruled that in its opinion the plan was valid and would be upheld by the courts.

Leader said there were about 100,000 college students in Pennsylvania, with the figure expected to go up to 120,000 by 1961 and to 242,000 by 1970.

Cherry Trees In Bloom at Area Cemetery

Blossoms on the Japanese cherry trees in Monongahela Cemetery will be in full bloom by Sunday according to cemetery superintendent Reese Isaac.

The 36 trees, situated in Block 12 of the cemetery, have attracted many visitors in recent years. They are a favorite topic for both amateur and professional photographers.

The original trees were planted 20 years ago. Two died last fall, but cemetery officials planted 30 new ones.

"Blooms of the new trees may not be as attractive as the older ones, but the blossom display is certain to be worth witnessing," Isaac said.

TRAPPED UP THERE — Smokestack worker Wallace Kanally perches (left) atop 200-foot Republic Steel smokestack in Cleveland, trapped there nearly six hours after losing a rope attached to the bosun's chair in which he rode to the top. Lower right: Kanally, 50, looks a bit tense after rescue. Upper right: The gimmick that got him down, a balloon. The helium balloon was released inside the chimney. It carried a cord up to Kanally. With the cord, Kanally pulled up a heavier cord. Then he threw the heavier cord to workmen on an adjacent roof, and they attached a rope which Kanally tied to the adjacent roof, and they attached a rescue rope.

State to Spend $1.6 Million to Trim Hillside

A new four-lane highway — free of threats of falling rocks and dirt — is being planned to replace the hazardous Monessen-Webster Rd. on Rt. 906.

Norbert G. Bell, state Highways Department district engineer, today told The Daily Independent that he has received instructions from Harrisburg to make a survey of the proposed project which will eventually eliminate the perilous conditions existing on the road and turn the present two-lane highway into a four-lane stretch from the borderline of Monessen to the borderline of Webster.

The estimated cost of the project has been set at $1,600,000, Bell said.

He said that a consulting engineer will be assigned to the project "within a few days." Construction work will begin, he stated, immediately upon approval of the consultant's designs.

To Cut Hillside

According to Bell, giant earth-moving equipment will be used to cut into the rock-lined hillside. He said the hillside will be cut into at least 25 feet. He said this is the amount of additional footage needed to provide a four-lane highway.

Once the hillside is cut back far enough, the top of the hill will be "stepped off to prevent rock slides and falling dirt," Bell stated. He added that this will provide "benches" to catch any cascade of rock or dirt before it can reach the highway."

Once the hillside phase of the project is completed, Bell said work will begin on the four-lane highway.

"It will be an entirely new road," he declared.

The four-lane road will form a "Y" at the entrance to Monessen. Two of the four lanes will lead to Schoonmaker Ave. and the other two will connect with Donner Ave. The latter stretch will cut across the former sites of the brewery and foundry.

The four-lane roadway will edge into a two-lane highway near the approach to Webster.

Bell said the go-ahead signal to begin work on the highway — the scene of many traffic deaths, serious injuries and countless slides — is the result of a meeting of Gov. George M. Leader and Secretary of Highways Joseph L. Lawler with Mayor Hugo J. Parente and other city and civic officials on April 11 in Harrisburg.

'Anti-secrecy' Bill on Floor Next Tuesday

HARRISBURG (UP) — Two House committee chairmen said today controversial "anti-secrecy" legislation would be reported to the chamber floor for action next Tuesday.

The legislation, strongly backed by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, would make all state and local government records and meetings open to the public. However, both bills appeared headed for amendments before they reach the floor.

Rep. Stanley L. Blair (R-Erie) said his Municipal Corporations Committee was in favor of the intent of Senate legislation requiring open meetings but the bill was "too loosely drawn." He said the measure would be tightened "without losing its original purpose." It passed the Senate earlier by an unanimous vote.

House legislation to make records of all local government offices, state boards and commissions and school districts open for inspection also will be revised before reaching the floor.

Rep. Harry W. Price Jr., chairman of a state government sub-committee, said the legislation would be changed to make some records immune to public inspection. Price said he would meet Monday with G. Richard Dew, PNPA general manager, to incorporate some publishers' views into the final version of the bill.

Artificial Lake In Greene County

HARRISBURG (UP)—An artificial lake will be constructed in Greene County as a recreational preserve.

Gov. George M. Leader said the Forests and Waters Department is surveying proposed sites in the vicinity of Claysville, Washington, Waynesburg and Rogersville. Construction on the project is scheduled to begin early next year.

Funds for the project will come from royalties received by the state from oil and gas land leases

Loyalty Parade Route Announced

The route for the annual Westmoreland County Loyalty Day parade, to be held in Greensburg Saturday, was announced today by Police Chief William Wolinsky.

The parade, which will get under way at 4 p. m., will form at Greensburg High School, move south on Main St. to Fourth St., west on Fourth St. to Pennsylvania Ave. and north on Pennsylvania Ave. to the Armory.

Members of the Monessen Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars will participate in the observance.

U. S. Steel to Close Fayette County Mine

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — U. S. Steel Corp. said today it will close its Palmer Mine operations June 28 because the mine has been worked out after producing more than 16 million tons of high-grade metallurgical coal in 49 years.

The shutdown will affect the jobs of 249 men.

The H. C. Frick Coke Co. began development of the 1800-acre Palmer mine tract in Fayette County in 1908. The Palmer Dock and Harbor were constructed on the Monongahela River in 1918 when a group of five inland mines contiguous to Palmer were connected underground with the Palmer operations.

Second to Close

The combined coal output was transported by underground rail haulage to the Palmer Dock for barge shipment to U.S. Steel's Clairton Works where the coal was converted into coke. In 1928, a high capacity belt conveying system was installed and it still is in operation.

U.S. Steel's Frick Division said the Palmer Mine will be completely exhausted of mineable coal by the end of June.

It will be the second major "captive" mine operation to be shutdown within three months in Southwestern Pennsylvania. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. closed its Vesta No. 4 mine near California, Washington County, last April 1.

Weir Is Former Monessen Man

Ernest T. Weir, 81, a pioneer in the steel industry who announced his retirement as chairman and chief executive officer of National Steel Corp. yesterday, was general manager of the Monessen plant of American Tin Plate Co. in 1903.

Weir came to Monessen when the plant here was known as the National Works of the company. He left Monessen after two years as general manager.

American Tin Plate merged with Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. in 1936. A year later the local plant suspended operations.

House Bill Would Okay Beaver Bridge

HARRISBURG (UP) The General Assembly has received legislation to authorize construction of a five million dollar bridge over the Ohio River in Beaver County.

The House bill specifies construction of the span from a point between Monaca and Aliquippa across the river to Crows Run. It was sponsored by Reps. Robert K. Hamilton (D-Beaver) and John R. Haudenshield (R-Allegheny).

The Same Old Story Of 'The Enlisted Man'

WASHINGTON (UP)— Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates today had a gripe on his hands. How come officers' wives get the front row seats at the movies?

The gripe came from an enlisted man by way of Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.).

The sailor who is stationed at the naval amphibious base at Little Creek, Va., said all dependents are seated in the balcony when movies are shown at the base theater.

But he said the center front rows are reserved for officers' dependents, surrounding seats are for chief petty officers' dependents and enlisted men's dependents get what is left.

He noted that chapel seats are not reserved by rank and "no ensign's wife has caught a communicable disease by worshipping next to the wife of an enlisted man."

The sailor said seating by rank at the movies has caused "much discontentment, irritation and all around bitter feelings" and as a result the better enlisted men are not reenlisting.

The Navy said seating by rank is done at naval shore establishments "as a matter of custom."

Moreover, it said the secretary of the Navy "is not of the opinion that seating arrangements of this type are detrimental to reenlistment."

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, wrote Gates in passing along the sailor's complaint:

"I strongly urge that you immediately order all Navy installations to remove rank designations from theater seating and thus restore to enlisted personnel their wives and children their rights, benefits of first-class citizenship."

City Ends Fiscal Year With $11,094 Balance

(See Notice on Page 12)

The annual financial report for the City of Monessen for 1956 showed the City ended the fiscal year with a net balance of $11,094.52.

Actually, the City had cash receipts totaling $773,494.66 against expenditures of $793,372.92, meaning it spent $19,878.28 more than it took in.

However, the City ended the previous year with a balance of $30,972.28 and dipped into that to end the year with the $11,094.52 balance.

The bonds outstanding as of Dec. 31, 1956, totaled $515,000.

The report showed the City has a borrowing power of $2,020,151.63, of which $1,645,405.13 can be borrowed only through a electoral bond issue. City Council itself is authorized to borrow up to $374,746.50 without a referendum, the report showed.

The assessed valuation of taxable real estate was placed at $34,608,102.50.

One of the major expenditures last year was the $117,857.07 paid out for construction of new streets and installation of new sewers. Some of the major expense items under the various departments in 1955 were:

Public Affairs: Salary of mayor, $3,600; city clerk, $4,983.12; solicitor, $2,250; assistant solicitor, $2,250; police chief, $4,983; lieutenants (combined), $18,300; patrolmen (combined), $64,092.64; auxiliary police and school patrol, $3,916.50; fire chief, $843.12; fire truck drivers, $14,094.48; juvenile officer, $981.12; dog catcher, $483.

Dilworth Will Testify Today

Talks to Pardons Probers

HARRISBURG (UP)—Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia was slated to testify under subpena today before the legislative committee investigating the state Pardons Board.

The subpena was served on Dilworth Wednesday afternoon in the state Senate chamber at the request of the two Democratic members of the committee, Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (Northampton) and Rep. Philip Lopresti (Cambria).

Yosko said he wanted Dilworth to testify concerning the case of Lester E. Gore, a former Philadelphia Republican ward leader, who was convicted of perjury in 1951 and pardoned by former Gov. John S. Fine in 1955, on the Pardon Board's recommendation.

Dilworth, however, pointed out that Gore's prosecution and conviction occurred before he took over as Philadelphia district attorney.

"I tried to tell them (the committee) that, but they slapped the subpena on me," Dilworth said.

He said that as district attorney he opposed Gore's clemency appeals before the board in 1954.

Gore was convicted of perjury after testifying before a grand jury that he did not take bribes in connection with his work on the city zoning adjustment board. His 1-3 year sentence was commuted by the Pardons Board and on Jan. 17, 1955, Gov. Fine on his last day in office granted a full pardon.

Seeks New Witnesses

Yosko also requested a subpena be served on former Philadelphia sheriff and GOP leader Austin Meehan and on all the members of the previous Republican Pardon Board. In a letter to Committee Chairman Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Cameron), Yosko said Meehan was quoted in a Philadelphia newspaper "as admitting he went to see Pardon Board members of the previous administration on Mr. Gore's behalf."

"In view of this statement," Yosko said, "it is requested that in addition to Mr. Meehan appearing before our committee, that the Pardon Board members serving at the time be summoned to appear."

Whether or not these new witnesses will prolong the hearings, which were scheduled to be ended today, appeared to depend on Dilworth's testimony.

The committee was authorized by the Legislature to investigate board actions for alleged "political considerations" and has already received one extension of its deadline until May 11.

Yosko has repeatedly charged that although the inquiry was to have gone back to January, 1950, the Republican majority on the committee has concentrated entirely on cases handled by the present board under the Democratic administration.

Tompkins said that unless "new facts" are brought to light by Dilworth's testimony the investigation will wind up today, on schedule.

Two Accidents Few Minutes Apart on Rt. 71

Two motor accidents occurred within five minutes of each other at almost the same place on Rt. 71 near the Route 51 intersection this morning, State Police reported.

In the first accident at 1:25 a. m., police said a car driven by Bonita Burnworth, of near Perryopolis, was traveling east when the car went out of control, crashed into an embankment and turned over.

Miss Burnworth and a passenger, Catherine Stack, of R. D. 2, Belle Vernon, were taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital with multiple bruises and lacerations about the scalp, face and body. Both are described as in "fair" condition.

The car was a total loss, according to police.

In the second accident at 1:30 a. m., a car driven by Elias D. Hanna, 28, of West Newton, was struck in the rear by a station wagon operated by Jim Wiant, 44, of 1014 Monongahela Ave., Belle Vernon.

Neither driver was injured, police said. Damage was placed at $650.

The concert will begin at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The program will include modern and classical music. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

First Test of Ike Doctrine in Jordan

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States may be heading for its first test of the Eisenhower Doctrine to help crisis-ridden Jordan in the Middle East.

This possibility arose today in the light of President Eisenhower's joint statement with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that they "regard the independence and integrity of Jordan as vital."

The wording was deliberately the same as the language of the Eisenhower Doctrine, which offers U.S. military and economic aid to Mideast nations beset by international Communism.

Diplomatic observers here noted that pro-Western King Hussein of Jordan Wednesday for the first time blamed international Communism for efforts to break up his country.

If the United States decides Communism is behind Jordan's troubles, this could pave the way for application of the Doctrine. American officials have repeatedly accused Russia of "fishing" in the troubled Mideast and have no doubt Moscow is trying to capitalize on the turbulent internal crisis in Jordan.

There is no indication U.S. troops will be sent to Jordan at this time. Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Wednesday night as far as he knows King Hussein has not requested American help—a prerequisite for application of Eisenhower Doctrine aid.

However, the Doctrine also provides for military and economic assistance apart from direct use of U.S. troops. Such military help could take the form of arms, military advisers or other aid if requested by Jordan.

The fact that Eisenhower and Dulles used the language of the Doctrine could constitute a broad hint to Jordan that such aid is available if requested.

West Elizabeth Man Held in Shooting of Bunola Resident

A 51-year-old West Elizabeth man, George Brown, was lodged in Allegheny County jail yesterday on a charge of felonious assault and intent to kill in the shooting of a Bunola resident who lay for four days alone in his home with a bullet lodged in his leg.

The wounded man, Burt McManus, told Forward Township police he was shot last Wednesday night. He was found in his home late Sunday night by a friend, Marvin Caruthers, also of Bunola, who was worried because McManus hadn't attended Easter church services.

Caruthers told police that he went to McManus' home at 6:15 Sunday morning to take McManus to church. He stated he "honked his horn but got no answer and I figured he'd slept in. I left and came back late Sunday. That's when I discovered he'd been shot."

Police took McManus to Monongahela Memorial Hospital where authorities described his condition as "fair" and added that they "didn't know yet" if amputation of the leg will be necessary.

Police Chief George Hines said McManus told him that Brown shot him "because I wouldn't go have a drink with him."

Chief Hines said Brown told him he'd "been drinking" at the time of the shooting. A .22 target pistol was used in the shooting, according to police, but neighbors apparently failed to hear the shot.

West Elizabeth police were not aware of the shooting although it occurred just in front of the station.

Forward Twp. Police Officer Anthony Piscitelli said McManus was picked up by Howard Cain of Bunola who took him home unaware that he had been shot.

Officer Piscitelli said McManus was suffering from starvation as well as infection from the bullet wound and "would have died there if Caruthers hadn't been interested enough to investigate."

County detectives said Brown, who was arrested Tuesday, is being held in Allegheny County jail pending a hearing tomorrow night before Justice of the Peace John F. Watson of Elizabeth on the felonious assault and intent to kill charges.

Israel to Free American Held On Spy Charges

TEL AVIV, Israel (UP) — An American woman convicted of spying against Israel will be released from prison Sunday and flown to the United States immediately, it was announced today.

The woman, Mary Frances Hagan, 29, has served eight months of a one-year sentence imposed last Oct. 11. She has been in jail since August.

Her counsel, Max Kritzman, of Chicago, said the U.S. State Department working in her family's behalf persuaded the Israeli government to release her ahead of schedule.

He said a condition of her release was that she be flown home immediately.

Miss Hagan, a tall, slim brunette who holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Columbia University, was convicted of "obtaining information" and "making a note likely to be useful for purposes prejudicing the interests of the safety of the state of Israel."

The court accepted testimony at the trial that Miss Hagan was the mistress of a diplomat in the Syrian Foreign Ministry.

Donora Case Is Ignored by Jury

The second successive Washington County grand jury yesterday refused to indict a Donora man on a charge of involuntary manslaughter growing out of an automobile accident in Donora last year.

The bill against Wendell Ramey was ignored by the May grand jury just as it was by the February grand jury.

Between the two terms, the family of the victim, 14-year-old Manuel Campa, petitioned the court for the re-submission of the case to the May jury, arguing that the District Attorney's office had not taken all the witnesses before the February jury.

Man and Son Unhurt When Bridge Falls

SALTSBURG, Pa. (UP)—A 50-year-old steel bridge spanning Loyalhanna Creek collapsed today, dropping an automobile occupied by a man and his son 20 feet to the edge of the stream.

Both men, Homer E. Fennell, and his son, Harry, Alexandria RD 2, escaped from the car without injury. The machine, caught in the twisted girders of the bridge, came to rest with the rear end in the water.

"I thought I saw one end of the bridge swaying, but I thought nothing of it because I cross that bridge every day on my way to work," the elder Fennell, an employe of a brick company at Salina, said. "When we were about six feet from the far end, it gave way. We weren't hurt, but we sure were shaken up."

The bridge, which carries Rt. 981 across the stream, had a rated capacity of 15 tons. Cause of the collapse was not determined immediately.

Enforcement of Traffic Laws Ruled Important

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader said today that one of the "weakest links" in the field of accident prevention is the enforcement of traffic laws.

The governor told a meeting of the Pennsylvania Traffic Court Conference here that while Pennsylvania's traffic fatality rate is the most improved of any major state in the nation, "we cannot justifiably feel complacent."

"The bald facts are that 1,762 persons died in Pennsylvania during 1956 as a result of automobile and pedestrian accidents."

Leader said the local court must stand for "dignity and fairness" because of the vast majority of Pennsylvanians it furnishes the only contact with the judiciary.

"In the administration of Pennsylvania's traffic control laws, it seems to me that the courts must also carry on the unending task of education," he said. "It is not merely the court's job to punish the traffic offender for his violation; it is just as important that the court impress him with a sense of his personal responsibility for the preservation of safety on the highways."

Invalid Mother Accuses Son

DETROIT (UP) — An invalid mother hobbled into Detroit Recorder's Court on crutches Wednesday to swear out a burglary warrant against her son.

Mrs. Emile Zakrzewski, 65, charged her son, Alexander, 45, broke down the front door of her house while she was in bed March 22 and tried to make off with $300 she had hidden in a box under the bed.

She said she hit him with a blackjack as he stooped down to pick up the box and he fled empty handed. The woman told police her son, who is being sought, gave her the blackjack for protection eight months ago.

Tavern Owner Hearing Monday

Washington County District Attorney Michael A. Hanna today said Giacomo J. Toretti, of Park Ave., Monongahela, will be given a hearing Monday on a charge of sales of beer to minors.

Toretti was arrested yesterday and given a preliminary hearing before Alderman Lewis Pergola, of Monongahela, who released him of $500 bond for the hearing.

Toretti is the owner of Jack's Tavern which figured in an alleged case involving a 16-year-old girl for which an Elizabeth youth was indicted in Washington Tuesday.

Chartiers Creek Survey Released

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Chartiers Valley Flood Control Committee has released a survey showing the Chartiers Creek flood last August was the worst in the history of the stream which has gone over its banks 54 times in the past 50 years.

Damage from the flood amounted to $6,243,000 and would have exceeded $14 million if the water had risen one foot higher, the report, released Wednesday, said.

Heavy Rains Cause Floods in Dry Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Violent rainstorms and tornadoes have touched off a series of flash floods in central Texas, killing several persons and causing heavy damage in a number of towns.

At least five persons were reported dead.

Mayor Sam Wood of Killeen an Army town of 21,000 persons, said his city sustained damage of between $1,400,000 and $2,000,000 Wednesday when Nolan Creek became a torrent.

Family Wiped Out

Bedilio Gonzales, his wife, Berta, and their six-year-old son, Pedro, were drowned when the rising stream swept their small home away. Mrs. Gonzales' body was found about 200 yards from the site of the house and her husband's body was found a half-mile away. The boy's body had not yet been recovered.

Mrs. J. T. Walker, 17, of Austin, and her baby son drowned when water swept their automobile off a highway near Johnson City. A companion, Mrs. Clara Joe Buckaroo, of Austin, was rescued.

In addition to the drowning deaths at least 20 tornadoes were sighted Wednesday. They brought to 56 the number of twisters sighted since Friday when violent weather struck the long-parched central Texas area.

Mrs. John Snowden was hospitalized with injuries suffered when a tornado destroyed her home west of Elgin. Her injury was the 38th from tornadoes since Friday.

Waters Receding

At Georgetown, near Austin, 30 homes were washed away or wrecked. Nearly 100 families were homeless in an area around Georgetown where the San Gabriel River leaped its banks.

The San Gabriel also caused extensive damage in Jonah, Weir, San Gabriel, Hare and Circleville all in the area around Georgetown. Sheriff Henry Matysek reported a railroad bridge washed out and another badly damaged near Circleville.

Waters appeared to be receding in the Georgetown area.

Floodwaters also appeared receding at Killeen and Belton, the hardest hit Wednesday, but rivers were expected to leap their banks farther south as the water surges toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Assembly Moves Toward June 1 Final Session

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly today moved steadily toward a date for final adjournment about June 1 despite Gov. George M Leader's pleas for concrete action on most of his administration's legislative program

By a voice vote the House Wednesday adopted a proposal to close the door May 9 on submission of all but a handful of key bills The House cut-off date traditionally is the signal for the beginning of the final adjournment drive

Exempted from the cut-off are appropriation and revenue bills and those concerned with party policy. The appropriation bills are virtually always the last to make their way through the legislative maze

The original May 30 adjournment target was moved up to June 1 by House Majority Leader Albert W Johnson (R-McKean) He said the chamber would go into four-day sessions next week and move into a five-day work week near the end of the session

The one exception to the lengthened legislative work week will be for the May 1 primary. The House plans to be absent the first two days of that week and meet Wednesday, Thursday and Friday

Suggests July 1 Date

House Democratic leaders are still advising a later adjournment in an attempt to salvage at least a good part of Leader's legislative plans House Minority Leader Albert S Readinger (D-Berks) suggested July 1 as a more logical target Readinger also questioned what was the expected fate of the estimated 200 administration bills

Johnson's reply gave little comfort to administration supporters 'I see no reason for all these frills—new dealish in nature—the governor has presented us" Johnson said He just wants us to furnish him a platform to run for the United States Senate next year"

The governor on May 2 gets what may be his last chance to convert GOP leaders to his way of thinking on the administration's program He is slated to confer with them concerning his plans

Meanwhile the Senate continued to move at its more leisurely pace acting on only a handfull of bills Wednesday before adjourning for the week

Before returning to their homes the senators slated next Monday April 29 for a final decision on the vexing proposal for a referendum on legalized horse race betting Senate Majority Leader Rowland B Mahany (R-Crawford) said a full-scale debate can be expected that day with a final vote on passage or rejection to follow.

Letters to Senators

A letter distributed on the desks of the senators by an organization pressing for passage of the referendum bill drew sharp criticism from one of the original supporters of legalized horse race betting in the state

Although denying any intent of a threat, the Pennsylvania Horse Racing Corp warned senators who oppose the legislation that it would fight you for the rest of your political life"

Sen G Robert Watkins (R-Delaware) "apologized" for the distribution of the letters and said such a move 'would do nothing but help defeat the proposal"

Dent estimated that when the proposed statewide referendum comes to a final vote 17 or 18 Democratic senators would support it At that rate it would have to pick up eight or nine votes on the Republican side of the aisle to clear the Senate

An 'omnibus gambling' proposal for a referendum to legalize bingo lotteries, raffles and horse race betting reached the floor of the House after being approved by the House Law and Order Committee

Rackets Probers Claim Someone Lied About Portland Story

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee insisting somebody lied to it, said today it is sending the Justice Department additional information to check against the story of a Portland Ore deputy sheriff

The committee wrote a pawdy finish to its gaudy Portland hearing Wednesday

Two women dope addicts one an admitted prostitute, testified that Deputy Sheriff George Minelli threatened them with jail unless they made false statements attacking the reputation of racketeer James B (Big Jim) Elkins the committee's star witness in hearings on vice in Portland involving officials of the Teamsters Union

Has Additional Information

Minelli called their testimony a 'hoax' and denied he threatened them or paid them money

Committee Counsel Robert F Kennedy told newsmen today the committee has additional information which would throw light on the testimony of Minelli, who was also questioned about his outside income

Chairman John L McClellan (D-Ark) sent Wednesday's testimony to the Justice Department and asked it to prosecute someone for perjury or subornation of perjury (inducing someone to lie under oath)

Meanwhile on other developments

—Sen John F Kennedy (D-Mass) said his regular Senate Labor subcommittee will begin hearings next month on bills to regulate union finances including use of dues money as well as health and welfare funds McClellan said Wednesday that Congress may enact legislation this year to curb labor racketeering

Targets Kohler Strike

—Sen Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) a member of the Rackets Committee said he has formally asked the committee to investigate the three-year strike of the United Auto Workers against the Kohler Co of Wisconsin The strike involves UAW President Walter P Reuther, a favorite Goldwater target

—McClellan said the committee is "approaching readiness" for hearings on labor racketeering in Philadelphia and a West Coast city which he refused to name However, the next city on the committee's agenda is New York where it will begin by investigating formation of bogus "paper locals' to swing a Teamster Union election The committee will hold a closed hearing in New York Friday

The chairman said the Philadelphia hearing involves about half a dozen unions as well as the Teamsters

"Where there is trouble you can more or less depend on it that the Teamsters are in on it," McClellan said

He said the Philadelphia case involves labor-management collusion misuse of union funds and violence in an organizing drive among automobile distributors

The Parking Plaza A Political Issue

IT IS A PITY, perhaps, but it can hardly be a surprise that Monessen's new parking plaza has become an issue of the Democratic mayoralty campaign.

John R. Stieska, who is opposing the renomination of Mayor Parente, brands the plaza as a "white elephant". He says it was poorly engineered, excessively costly and will be a burden on the taxpayers indefinitely. And for good measure, he charges that the members of the Authority are "controlled" by the Mayor.

Time may prove Mr. Stieska is right on all points. We have had our own doubts, for whatever they may be worth, about the location of the plaza. And not too long ago a member of the Authority itself was complaining in public that he could not get up-to-the-minute information about the financial operations of the Authority. Which is not good.

We're inclined to think, however, that Mr. Stieska's criticisms may be premature, at least. This is Monessen's first serious attack on a problem which confronts virtually every community in the country. And the plaza has been in operation less than six months, hardly an adequate period to permit conclusive opinions about it.

It would seem to us that common sense requires the public to withhold its judgment. If there have been mistakes and they are as serious as Mr. Stieska would have us believe, that will surely become clear in due time.

We realize, of course, that this may be too late to serve Mr. Stieska's purpose. He needs his votes next month, not next year.

But while we would be the last to suggest that there should be a moratorium on public discussion of any public matter and while Mr. Stieska is under some obligation to put his views before the voters, we cannot forget that Rome was not built in a day. And Monessen will not be modernized and rejuvenated in a day, either, nor without some sweat and tears.

In our opinion, the parking plaza, imperfect though it may be, has been a vitally necessary contribution to this process. And every effort should now be made to have it serve its purpose as well as possible.

Mr. Dulles Speech

THE SPEECH which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles delivered before the Associated Press in New York City on Monday appealed to us as a clear and constructive statement of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy. And as described by Secretary Dulles, this continues to be a policy which, in general, the American people can support with confidence.

The gist of what Mr. Dulles had to say could be expressed, perhaps, in his phrase, "waging peace". For that is what the Eisenhower administration has been trying to do — and succeeding rather well, considering the great obstacles.

Mr. Dulles, without resorting to dramatics and in very simple, temperate language, laid out the basic purposes of the United States in its relations with other nations. They are:

—A striving for freedom for all men, including those living under Communist despotism.

—A readiness to help those less privileged than ourselves to attain freedom and independence, economic as well as political.

—A willingness to consider an attack upon any free nation as an attack upon ourselves. Mr. Dulles pointed out that we now have defensive military alliances with 43 nations.

—A sincere desire to persuade the rulers of Russia that our military and political alliances are not for the purpose of destroying them so long as they avoid destroying others.

—A readiness, moral and physical, to retaliate with overwhelming power against a false Soviet move.

This is the simple outline of our policy which Mr. Dulles sketched. Perhaps some of the details which he offered, notably his discussion of the Middle East, will not be 100 per cent satisfying to all Americans.

But by large, we are convinced that the policies of the administration are in full accord with the wishes of the American people.

Dog Symbol

AN EFFORT is being made to have the Great Dane designated as Pennsylvania's official dog. Such a bill has already passed the Senate.

Before the thing goes any farther, however, we think somebody should give us some information on the cost of the care and feeding of the Great Dane. We understand from a friend who once owned one of the critters that he had to have a dozen eggs and several pounds of good meat every day.

Come to think of it, though, the symbolism isn't so far amiss. Government today is the biggest, hungriest dog the taxpayer could possibly own. And if we put a Great Dane in every seat in the legislature, they wouldn't eat us out of house and home any faster than the present occupants of those seats are doing.

Merry-Go-Round—

Doodlers Are Threat To Securily

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam's security system is now so strict that even doodling by high officials is checked to make sure their subconscious doesn't reveal any secrets. The doodles usually are burned if they are drawn during a secret conference.

Mr. Pearson

Washington's champion doodler, Secretary of State Dulles, draws complex geometric designs as he thinks. It isn't likely these abstract patterns would give away any secrets. But on the chance a psychologist might get a clue to Dulles' secret thinking from them, aides scrupulously gather up his doodles and stuff them into a brief case after each meeting.

Secretary of Defense Wilson also doodles at his desk. He may jot down a word or figure or curlicue, but his staff doesn't bother to pick up after him. They are convinced his doodling would only confuse enemy agents.

Sensitive agencies, such as the Atomic Energy Commission and Central Intelligence Agency, automatically destroy all doodling or scribbling that has anything to do with secret work.

Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis Strauss does not doodle, but he scrawls notes on tiny white pads and stuffs them in his pockets. He even keeps a pad by his bedside in case he should get an idea in the middle of the night. But he always empties his pockets in his office and is careful to destroy notes that contain security information.

Central Intelligence chief Allen Dulles scribbles notes on sheets of long, lined yellow paper. His security-minded staff takes no chances and simply incinerates all his waste paper.

The same is true in other secret offices around Washington. Even doodling is often classified as "top secret."

McCarthy Boom

Inside word from Wisconsin is that the White House won't be able to purge Sen. Joe McCarthy in next year's Republican primary.

It is no secret that President Eisenhower would like to rid the Senate of McCarthy. The unofficial White House candidate for McCarthy's seat is ex-Gov. Walter Kohler, who is considered more popular than Joe in Wisconsin.

An unannounced hitch has developed, however, in Kohler's plan to challenge McCarthy in the primary. Kohler has always endorsed the state GOP convention and has said he wouldn't run without the convention's support.

The party bosses, who control the convention, are now swinging behind Joe. They are disgruntled conservatives who believe McCarthy will help save the party from Ike's "modern Republicans." Their feelings have been intensified by the social snub the White House handed Joe.

Earlier, GOP boss Tom Coleman had passed the word to his organization that McCarthy was through. But it now looks as if the convention will give Joe the nomination anyhow. It's all part of the Republican revolt against Ike that is sweeping Congress and pervading the rest of the USA.

The only other candidates who might whip Joe in the primary, Gov. Vern Thompson and Glenn Davis, don't want to buck the party organization. This means no prominent Republican will be in the field against McCarthy.

It also means the Democrats will have their best chance since 1932 to pick up a Wisconsin seat. Cong. Henry Reuss, state Senator Gaylor Nelson, and perennial candidate William Proxmire are eager to get the Democratic nomination.

An interesting dark horse may also enter the Democratic race. He is Milwaukee's Judge Robert Hanson, a stocky, pipe-smoking municipal judge.

Meanwhile, the political winds are blowing in Senator McCarthy's favor.

Under the Dome

Top stenogs who work for Democrats on Capitol Hill are burned up over Mamie Eisenhower. She invited only Republican career women to tea at the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Truman used to hold teas for government career women of both parties. But Mamie has invited only the women who work for Republicans . . . Able Congressman Sam McConnell of Pennsylvania has been quietly checking big Republican contributors to see if they'll back him as the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania . . . GOP Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is lining up conservative Republicans to support senator Knowland of California for President in 1960. Goldwater is boasting privately that right-wing Republican senators are certain to take control of the party during the last two years of Ike's term and their candidate will definitely be Knowland. . . .

Civil Rights and Jury Trial

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

It is only frank to state that much of the opposition to the civil rights bills, now before Congress, is based on the fear that if enacted they will be successful in protecting the right to vote.

In other words most of the maneuvering and debate which have been going on in committee over these administration measures have as their purpose to defeat or so weaken them that they would not be useful. It would be misstating the facts to say otherwise.

Mr. Drummond

Some opponents of the proposed legislation argue that it would short circuit trial by jury.

Here is the crux of the problem:

The right to vote for federal officials is guaranteed by the Constitution. The only way the federal government can now protect that right is to undertake criminal prosecution of state and local officials suspected of administering voting regulations in a discriminatory manner. Such prosecution can only come after the suspected denial of right to register or vote has taken place — and thus does little good in preventing such discrimination.

Change Proposed

The administration program would change this procedure at two points. It would authorize the Attorney General to bring civil, instead of criminal, suits in order to protect federally guaranteed civil rights. It would also enable the Justice Department to act preventively in case of threatened violation of voting rights.

Under the proposed law, for example, a suit in equity could be brought against a registrar of voters suspected of discriminating against Negroes in administering a literacy test, and thus he could be enjoined from such discrimination far enough in advance of an election to permit Negroes to register and vote.

The key provision of the administration bill is that the court must have the authority to require a state or local official to obey a court order enjoining him against certain practices or to punish him for refusal to obey.

What would be the rights of the defendant — the local registrar? He could be represented by counsel, could bring witnesses; he could cross-examine witnesses. He would be presumed innocent: his guilt would have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt; he could not be compelled to testify against himself.

Courts Have Power

The advocates of the administration bill contend that the federal courts in these cases must have sufficient power to enforce the decrees which they enter.

The opponents of the administration bill propose to take from the federal courts the authority to enforce their injunctions against voting discrimination and place that authority in the hands of juries.

The use of civil suits, as proposed in the civil rights legislation, to make possible preventive relief in enforcing federal law is not new. The Department of Justice had used such proceedings in anti-trust cases since 1890 and has similar powers to enforce the Atomic Energy Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Securities Acts and others. Jury trial is not involved.

It is increasingly clear that the foundation stone of all civil rights is the right to vote. When this right is secured and practiced, other civil rights can better be protected; when this right is violated and neglected, the loss of other civil rights follows easily.

Critical Issue

This is why the supporters of the civil rights program believe it should be passed as written since, in the experience of the Justice Department, it is "the minimum needed to make the provisions of the Constitution effective in actual practice to protect minority groups now being discriminated against in certain areas on a wholesale basis."

This is why its opponents want either to defeat the program or remove from it the provison that the federal courts shall have the power to enforce their orders after full hearing.

It is too early to forecast the fate of the civil rights legislation at this session. It is clear that what is at stake is meaningful legislation, not just civil-rights shadowboxing.

U. S. and Ex-enemies Plan Crucial Talks

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Relations between the United States and its two chief World War II enemies are coming up for review within the next two months.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany is to visit Washington on May 27.

Mr. McCann

Premier Nobusuke Kishi of Japan will follow him on June 19.

The visits will come at a time when important developments are taking place in both the European and Far Eastern situations.

Three Points Each

Adenauer will discuss with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles the defense of Western Europe, the reunification of Germany and relations with Soviet Russia.

Kishi will discuss Japanese rearmament, the Japanese - American security treaty, the future of the island of Okinawa and Japan's relations with Communist China.

Adenauer is still worried over the prospect that Britain, France and also the United States may withdraw a substantial part of the troops they now maintain in Germany as part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

As part of the question of Japanese rearmament, Kishi wants to revise the Japanese - American security treaty. Part of this picture is the fact that the United States still maintains about 100,000 troops in Japan. Another part is that Okinawa, 325 miles south of the Japanese home islands, now is one of the most important American military bases in the world. Japan is looking forward to the day when it may regain sovereignty over the island.

Increased Trade Conceded

The most important immediate question in Kishi's mind will be Japanese trade with Communist China. The United States has reluctantly agreed that demands by Britain and Japan for increased trade with Red China must be conceded.

An interesting part of the German and Japanese situations is that these countries, the two chief enemies of the United States in the last great war, are actively rearming not only by the consent but by the urgest request of the Western Allies.

The rearmament of Germany and Japan is especially interesting when it is remembered that they, above all other countries, have a long history of militarism.

Sees Local Traffic Problem as Hopeless

To the Editor:

To find out what results we will get from our action on the Monessen traffic problem it is necessary for us to go back to the time when Monessen began.

About 60 years ago when Pittsburgh Steel settled in its present seat, they did so because the river would provide them with cheap transportation and plenty of water which the mill uses. Also the railroad runs through Monessen mill which is another means of bringing in and taking out the finished goods.

If it was most logical for Pittsburgh Steel to build its mill close to the river, it was also most logical for people to build their homes as close as possible to the mill because they would be close to their work, close to the railroad station and close to the streetcar lines.

The streets were built wide enough for two horse-driven wagons to pass.

But from the time Monessen began to build up until now, we have made complete industrial revolution. We no longer have the buggies and the wagons. Instead we have between 55 and 60 million vehicles in the United States — and Monessen has its share.

You can start out from 12th St. on down Schoonmaker to Brewery Hill Rd. and I assure you that you will not find a parking space vacant for more than two or three minutes at a time. Likewise with Donner Ave. Cars on both sides and hardly a vacant parking space at any time.

So you see, whenever Monessen began to build, the streets were tailored to fix the conditions of those days. But today our transportation is not a boy any longer — it is a grown up man.

And to try to squeeze all our automobiles and trucks on the Monessen streets today is like trying to put a suit on a grown up man that he wore when he was a youngster.

To take the cars from one side of Donner Ave. and put them someplace else where there is no more room than there is on Donner Ave. is just like taking a ten dollar bill from the right pocket and putting it into the left, then the next day take it from the left pocket and put it back into the right one. You are not solving any problem by doing that.

Only one logical way to partly solve the traffic problem in Monessen is to take a few huge bulldozers and start out from the railroad freight station and go all the way down to the A & P, tearing all the buildings down on the right hand side of Donner Ave.

But that won't be done because under the peoples capitalism — what's good for one, is poison for the other.

Our industrial development and the very progress itself is not in in favor of improving automated towns and cities. Towns like Monessen and Charleroi will eventually become ghost towns like Belle Vernon and Fayette City.

Everything points to new shopping centers out on the highways and homes in the country. It is just as easy for a man to drive 10 miles to his work today as it was for a man to walk 10 city blocks 40 years ago.

Quigg Finds Pope Vigorous and Friendly

By DOC QUIGG

ROME (UP)—The altogether remarkable man who is Pope Pius XII is — at 81 and after an illness so critical that grave fears were held for his life — full and firm of flesh in the face, quick of wit, alert, and gracious and friendly as ever to visiting strangers.

My impression of him during a private audience in the Vatican was of a personality as vivid and vigorous, a face as healthy looking, as the same man displayed 11 years ago during another private audience.

When I saw him that first time, in 1946, he sat at his desk in his quietly beautiful library in the Vatican. This second time the audience was in the Tronetta Room —room of the little throne—just next to the library, and the Pope stood or walked the entire time.

Asks Home Towns

He moved easily. His speech was sure and his voice firm. He shook hands with each of a visiting contingent of newsmen and expressed interest in the home town of each: "New York? Ahh, yes . . . St. Paul? Oh, yes . . . in Minnesota."

He pressed into each hand a tiny blue envelope stamped in gold with his personal insignia. Inside we found a medallion with a raised likeness of his face in profile and inscribed "Pius XII Pontifex Maximus."

My upbringing was in a Protestant faith in Missouri. Nevertheless it is impossible to stand with Pius XII and not feel the compelling impact of his personality.

Our group went to the Tronetta Room and stood in an L-shaped reception line. A church dignitary came in from the library, spread his arms wide, and announced: "The Holy Father!" The Pope strode through the door, moving quickly toward us. A priest who had guided our group into the Vatican clapped his hands loudly and excitedly.

A Gifted Linguist

But our circle of Americans, accustomed to be hushed in things religious, remained almost sternly silent. After greeting each of us individually and blessing personally the religious objects that some held out to him, the Pope faced us and read a statement he had prepared for us.

He is a gifted linguist. However, his English comes through with some Italian accent. He addressed us as "gentlemen of the press and of the air" who had followed in the footprints of Columbus. There is, he said, in some places an evil press which builds calumny and scandal into "inch-high headlines." He spoke of the grave responsibility in our duty to society to give truth without distortion.

The statement finished, he smiled and asked if we would like to have a picture of the audience. We said we would very much. We gathered around the Pope and a Vatican photographer stood against the wall and snapped and then said: "Just one more."

The Pope raised a finger and chuckled. "Always one more," he said, "just to be sure." And he nodded to the photographer, who snapped again."

MHS Tennis Outlook Doubtful

"It's hard to say just how good we'll be this season." So comments Miss Antoinette Valentine, the Monessen High tennis coach who will take her students to Monongahela today for the Section 4 opener. "I can say only that all four of our top boys have improved considerably over last season." . . . Incidentally the MHS tennis team will be without one of its top players — junior Jim Baker. The youngster raised some eyebrows when he decided not to go out for the team. He's spending his time these days with the Greyhound baseballers instead. Teamed with Joe Kurey, Baker would have given the Hounds one of the finest doubles-combinations in the WPIAL.

A member of the WPIAL Basketball Committee has hinted that there will be NO major changes in the 1957-58 lineup of sections . . . Fred Cox, the fine Monongahela High fullback, has definitely decided to enroll at Pitt in September . . . Speaking of Cox, he swings no less than FIVE bats while awaiting his turn at the plate in Section 17 baseball tussles . . . Rumor has it that the Greensburg School Board is just about ready to name a successor to basketball coach Harold Smith. The popular Smith resigned recently to devote full-time to a flourishing motel business in Miami, Fla.

Narrow Cage Choice at Greensburg

By the way, the Greensburg biggies have reportedly narrowed the list of eligibles to just four. One of them is Bill Douglas, the former Greensburg pilot now at Brentwood High . . . Barry Trew, the Bentleyville youth who holds the national gallery and junior rifle title, will be among the guests of honor at a testimonial banquet in Washington, Pa., this Saturday . . . If there's a prouder father in Monessen these days than Felton Brown, we'd like to know who he is.. Felton, a truly nice guy, is beaming over the track exploits of his equilly nice son, Felton, Jr., current a freshman sensation at Westminster College.

Dan Leihgeber, who died earlier in the week in Warren, O., was quite an athlete in these parts back at the turn of the century. He was a standout infielder with the old Monessen Tin Plate team and he did a little footballing as well . . . Our apologies to Paul Amoroso, who has been trying for two years to get his name into the paper as a leading scorer in the Pittsburgh Steel Office Bowling League. The other night Paul finally topped the scoring, but, alas, his brother John was credited with the feat! . . . And to compound the injustice, Paul lives right next door to this reporter. Which proves we don't play favorites, at least.

Rosborough Quite a Speaker, Too

Bob Rosborough, fine Pitt end from Donora, will speak at the Mapletown High all-sports banquet tonight. A drama enthusiast, Rosborough knows how to handle himself on the speaker's rostrum . . . Remember Buddy Young, the brilliant little halfback at Illinois and later with the Baltimore Colts? He has a kid brother — Hendricks Henry Young — who stands a mere 5-4 and weighs 145 pounds. The younger Young will play for Michigan State this fall at FULLBACK! . . . It's been a long time since the National League has had so many brash managers. Heading the list is the Pirates Bobby Bragan. Not far behind are Birdie Tebbets of the Redlegs and Bill Rigney of the Giants.

Yanks Respect Their Stern Boss, Stengal

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Ask his players what changed Casey Stengel from a baseball clown to a diamond genius and you come up with the summation that he is a combination mystic, psychologist and slave driver — complete with whip.

Stengel, in his nine years with Brooklyn and Boston, never finished higher than fifth in the managerial derby. His current string of seven pennants and six world championships in eight years is unmatched in baseball annals.

Everybody agrees that he has the talent with which to work.

They Respect Him

"But the biggest thing," says one, "is that he makes everybody feel he's the boss. No clubhouse lawyers with us. He kills 'em. He tells us hard and straight and, when he's done, you don't have any questions."

The Yankees have great respect for Stengel. No great fondness, possibly, because of his stern and dictatorial manner in the privacy of a businesslike clubhouse, but a respect tinged with just a bit of timidity. Yet, because of his fairness, they work ever harder for his rare award of praise.

Unquestionably he has had the talent yet it has been his job to mold the players into champions and he has done it with the aid of an able if silent band of coaches such as Jim Turner, Bill Dickey and Frank Crosetti. Yet even they listen mutely when the "Boss" speaks, which is often, because nothing misses the ever-watchful Stengel eyes.

"How do we get the players?" Stengel growls. "Well, we don't hold a gun to their head and make them sign. Nor do we promise them any more than they are offered by other clubs."

The answer must be that the Yankee system of painstaking and never-ceasing instruction is the answer. Stengel instituted the so-called rookie school idea in 1951 yet, even when a man "makes" the big club, he still is checked and rechecked constantly.

"Maybe the answer is good material and attention to detail," said another player, "but Stengel manages us to an extra five to 10 games each season."

Frank Lane, general manager of the Cardinals, must agree.

"One thing I try to tell 'em," he says, "is not to try to outmanage him."

Improving George Selelyo gave the Monessen High thinclads something to cheer about yesterday as he finished first in the low hurdles during a triangular meet at Donora.

That was the only first place copped by the locals who finished third in the scoring with 31 points.

As expected, host Donora ran away with the event piling up 80 5-6 points. Charleroi was a distant second with 46 1-6 points.

Selelyo covered the low hurdles in pretty good time of 14.9. He may turn out to be a real threat to Brownsville's great hurdler Grover Ferguson in the Big Six Meet next week.

Selelyo also finished second in the broad jump to emerge as Monessen's top scorer.

Other Scorers

Also scoring points for the Hounds were George Donnell, who was second in both the 880 and 100 yard dash and third in the broad jump; George Shuma, who was third in the 440; Ron Rosul who was fourth in the 440; Algie Link who was fourth in the 220; Dan Barton who was fourth in the high jump and third in the javelin; and Bob Pauline who was second in the javelin.

Monessen's mile and 880 relay teams also placed second in each event.

Joe Louis to Undergo Exam

CHICAGO (UP)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis may find out today whether his heart is in good condition.

Louis learned last July he had suffered a cardiac contusion, or damage to a layer of his heart.

Consequently he was denied a wrestling license by the Illinois Athletic Commission on the recommendation of Dr. Irving Slott, commission physician, who said Louis should not be permitted to wrestle for six months.

Slott also recommended a re-examination in six months for a "re-evaluation" of Louis' condition, and the Brown Bomber underwent a checkup at Provident Hospital Wednesday.

Center League Rolloffs Saturday

Italian Hall will meet the Turners on Saturday at 6 p. m. for the Center's City League bowling title.

In addition an important meeting will be staged concerning the annual banquet.

A league official said that all members should make a special effort to attend. A difficulty has come up over the May 4 date. The time and place of the annual affair may have to be changed.

Set Date for Bowling Match

That annual "challenge" match between two bolwing teams from the Page plant will take place Saturday at 3:30 p. m.

For the ninth straight year, Al Chevin's Cleaners will meet Bill Hughes Spoilers in a three-game match which will be decided on total pins.

The losers will have to buy steak suppers for the victors.

Majias to Be Out Ten Days

PITTSBURGH (UP) - Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder Roman Mejias, who pulled up in pain while running out an infield grounder against the Giants in New York Tuesday, will be out of the lineup for about a week to 10 days. The outfielder suffered a "detached rib" and will be unable to throw or hit until it has healed.

Japanese men average about five feet, three inches in height while the women average four inches less.

MHS Tennis Team in Debut This Afternoon

Monessen High's 1957 tennis edition will open today at Monongahela on the Fourth St. courts. The first match will begin at 3 p. m.

Coach Antoinette Valentine has selected Joe Kurey, Ron D'Angelo, Dennis D'Alessio and George Selelyo to represent the Greyhounds.

Kurey, the team's number one player, will head the singles cast. D'Angelo and D'Alessio will also play in singles matches.

All three of those boys saw action last year.

Kurey will team with Selelyo in the doubles competition while D'Angelo will pair with D'Alessio.

Drills Curtailed

"The weather has sharply curtailed our practice sessions," said Miss Valentine. "However all of the boys have improved considerably over last season and we should make a respectable showing."

The Monongahela netters will be coached by Fred Fleming, former all-around athlete at both Charleroi High and California Teachers.

The Monessen High netters will begin their home season next Monday at the City Park courts against Charleroi. All home games will be played by the Hounds at City Park.

Gomes Looks Good Over TV

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UP)—Harold Gomes, the New England featherweight champion, was mighty pleased today with his knockout victory over Bobby Rogers of Chicago in his first nationally-televised fight.

"I wanted to win and I wanted to look good," the popular Providence scrapper said after dropping Rogers for the full count at 1:54 of the ninth round Wednesday night before 1,363 hometown fans.

Gomes certainly looked good in scoring two early knockdowns and then, after catching a mid-fight breather, he came back in the next-to-last round to put Rogers away for good with a countering right-hand punch to the jaw.

It appeared Gomes would send his many rooters home early when he floored Rogers for a mandatory eight count in the opening round, catching the Chicago youth with a left-right combination.

Again in the fourth session, it appeared Rogers would be knocked out when a solid right decked him for another eight-count.

Barons to Split Big Playoff Pool

NEW YORK (UP)—The Cleveland Barons, winners of the American Hockey League's Calder Cup playoffs, will split up 38 per cent of the total playoff pool of $58,412.30 — one of the biggest in years. The Rochester Americans split up 30 per cent, while the Providence Reds get 19 per cent and the Hershey Bears get 13 per cent. Cleveland's share amounts to $22,196.67.

Ozarks Plan Practice Tonight

Manager Tony Mascetta has called a practice session for his Monessen Ozarks today following the Charleroi-Monessen baseball game at Ninth Street Park.

Mascetta disclosed that he already has a dozen players under contract. He promised to reveal their names in a day or so.

Post Forfeits Tonight Here At MVL Meeting

Forfeits will be posted tonight during a meeting of the Mon Valley Baseball League at the Monessen Sport Shop.

Actually three teams — Monessen Ozarks, Charleroi and Donora — have already anted-up their $75 forfeits.

Expected to come through tonight are Monessen USW, Fayette City, New Eagle and Van Voorhis.

Perryopolis, last year's champion, reportedly will not field a team this season. Instead the Perry equipment will be turned over to a Prep League club.

Among the items for discussion this evening will be the future of New Eagle in the MVL. The New Eagle boys want to remain in the circuit, but they face a major problem now that their home diamond has been taken as a site for a new coal tipple.

Consider Webster

Manager Frank Furiga may ask the league for permission to play all games away from home. There is also a possibility that he may seek the unused, but excellent, diamond at Webster.

Ground-rules will also be discussed as well as the opening date.

Commissioner George Kuvinka and Secretary Chuck Zubritsky are expected to go right to work on a schedule as soon as all forfeits have been posted.

Bucs Rest After Loss To Phils

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, beaten six times in seven games on their first eastern swing, rested today before beginning a long home stand during which they will play 16 games against six clubs.

The dismal road trip ended at Philadelphia Wednesday night with the Pirates absorbing an 8-5 drubbing from the Phillies.

Rookie Ed Bouchee hit a three-run triple and rookie Bob Bowman followed with a two-run homer as the Phillies blasted Bob Friend for seven runs in the sixth inning—the biggest inning for the Phils since an eight-run fiasco against the Pirates last August.

Two-Hitter Explodes

The Pirates led, 2-0, on Dick Groat's two-run single in the fifth and Friend had a two-hitter going when the Phils ganged up on him in the sixth. In addition to the blows by Bouchee and Bowman, the Phils collected two walks and three singles in the frame.

Catcher Stan Lopata of the Phils hit a 472-foot homer off Dick Hall in the seventh.

Lefty Curt Simmons started for the Phils and became a winner the first time this season. He was lifted for a pinchhitter in the sixth and was followed by rookie Don Cardwell, but Bob Miller had to come to the rookie's relief when Cardwell walked three men as the Pirates scored three times in the eighth.

Mejias Still Out

The loss was Friend's second in three decisions this year.

When the Pirates open their long home stand Friday night against Brooklyn, outfielder Roman Mejias will be out of the lineup as a result of a painful rib injury.

Dr. Joseph Finegold, team physician, said a "detached rib" would keep Mejias out of action for a week to 10 days. Mejias, injured in Tuesday's game with the Giants, will be unable to throw or hit until the injury has healed.

Gray Challenges Jones Tonight

FLINT, Mich. (UP)—Joe Gray, a virtual unknown from Dearborn, Mich., will try to become a "boxing somebody" tonight when he meets highly regarded Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., here in a 10-round middleweight bout.

Gray, who has won 18 of 19 fights as a pro, has done most of his fighting in Detroit and out-state Michigan. But despite his lack of nationwide stature he has been made a favorite over Jones in local boxing circles.

George Washington founded the Military Order of the Purule Heart, the medal now given to wounded soldiers.

Old Rivals Clash In Baseball at Ninth Street Park

Regardless of previous records, Charleroi and Monessen High Schools always manage to stage interesting sports contests when they get together.

Thus today's Section 17 baseball meeting of the two old foes at Ninth Street Park may turn out to be better than the records would seem to indicate.

The visitors will come to town with a perfect 3-0 record. They are regarded by most observers as "shoo-ins" again this season for the valley diamond title.

In contrast, Monessen is in the midst of a rebuilding program. The Greyhounr, with undergrads at almost every position, have lost three straight assignments after winning their opener in surprising fashion from Monongahela.

Good at Times

The fact that the Greyhounds tripped highly-rated Monongahela is evidence that they can rise to the occasion at times.

Coach John Hayduk, himself a former Charleroi High athlete, has been juggling his Monessen lineup in an effort to give every boy on the squad a chance to show his stuff.

By now Hayduk has a pretty good line on his team, so today's tussle may be a little tougher for the Charleroians than anticipated.

Monessen will probably start Myron Sepitko, ace junior hurler. It's a good bet that the visitors will counter with their brilliant moundsman, Carl Witmyer, a senior southpaw.

Witmyer has to rank as one of the finest pitching prospects to come out of the valley in years. He was great as a sophomore two seasons back and has shown constant improvement since then.

Bellmar Plays

In another Section 17 tussle is also on tap for today. Bellmar will visit Monongahela.

Actually the game will be played at Van Voorhis. The Wildcats were forced to reschedule home contests there when their old site at Quinn Park was claimed for a coal tipple.

Bellmar and Monongahela both have 2-2 records. Today's game will decide third place in the Section 17 standings for the time being.

Fullmer, Sugar In Final Drills

CHICAGO (UP) — Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and Sugar Ray Robinson, who lost the title in January to Fullmer, today opened their final week of training for their May 1 title re-match at the Chicago Stadium.

Both fighters underwent physical checkups by doctors of the Illinois Athletic Commission Wednesday and were declared in good condition for the championship fight.

Fullmer relaxed after the medical checkup, but Robinson resumed his training, sparring a few rounds. Fullmer was expected to finish his sparring Saturday.

Both fighters are near the 160-pound weight limit for the battle. Fullmer scales 157 pounds, but Robinson must lose 2½ pounds to get down to the limit.

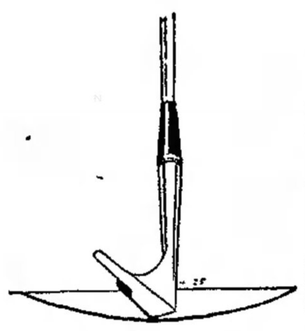
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



For 'Sand-Trapper'

I have a suggestion for sand-trap trouble: Practice some sand trap shots without a ball.

Take your sand wedge and plunge into a practice sand trap. Settle your feet firmly in the sand, as you would for a regular sand shot. Now swing through and try to take out a divot of sand about a half inch thick and about four to six inches long. Make that divot fly up and out of the trap!

Repeat the process 1 to 20 times — or until you're able to take out sand divots of uniform depth and length.

After a time, try the same thing, but with a ball roughly in the center of the divot you figure on taking out of the trap.

Playing some of these mock sand shots will greatly improve your sand-trap swing. But more than that, the process will be of wonderful help in building (or restoring) your sand-trap morale

Redlegs Happy To Take 'Walks'

CINCINNATI (UP) — A walk is as good as a hit, and if you don't believe it, ask Birdie Tebbetts.

"We'll take all those walks we can get," said the Cincinnati manager today, commenting on the National League record his club set Wednesday night by drawing nine bases on balls in a seven-run fifth inning that highlighted a 9-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Redlegs made only one hit in the inning, a single by George Crowe, as four of the walks forced in runs.

Losing pitcher Moe Drabowsky walked four in a row, Jackie Collum three and Jim Brosnan two during the uprising.

There was no way to tell, but Chicago manager Bob Scheffing appeared to age 10 years during the walkathon.

Giambra Signs To Meet Vejar

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) — Joey Giambra of San Francisco and Buffalo, N.Y., and Chico Vejar of Stamford, Conn., have signed to meet in a 10-round bout at the Oakland Auditorium, May 14.

Babe Kroskie First In Bowling Tourney

Babe Kroskie, of Monessen, swept to the women's title in the annual All-American Classic Bowling Tournament at the Uniontown Laurel Lanes last night.

Her prize was a $100 bill.

Babe, generally regarded as the city's most consistent feminine bowler, turned in fine scores of 183, 186, 200 and 159 for a four game total of 728.

Placing second was Agnes King, of Pittsburgh, who came through with a 717.

Another Monessen bowler, Mary Palm, was third with a 696 total. She also had the best single game score of 211.

Fourth place in the event went to Martha Venturini, of Masontown, who had a 690.

Popular Event

The All-American Classic is one of the district's most popular post season events. Annually it attracts the finest lady bowlers hereabouts.

Action in the men's division of the tourney will be staged this weekend.

Kroskie is captain of the Monessen Fifth Avenue team which is currently first in the Mon Valley League standings.

In other games, the Rochester Red Wings behind Duke Markell's second straight route-going performance, tripped Miami, 8-4

Cholly Naranjo scattered 10 hits to give the Columbus Jets a 5-0 triumph over the Montreal Royals. The loss dropped the Royals into the league basement.

Kanas City Still Rolling on: Indians Are Pelted, 17 to 6

By MILTON RICHMAN

Those clouting Kansas City Athletics are kicking up the biggest racket in the American League today with an eye-popping home run barrage that's silencing all critics who wrote them off as "a farm club of the Yankees."

Only a half game out of first place, the Athletics actually are beating the Yankees at their own game—the home run. Lou Boudreau's fence wreckers have blasted 16 homers so far, the total in the major leagues.

They slammed out five Wednesday night in burying the Cleveland Indians, 17-6, and some skeptics may point to the "short porch" the A's have to aim at in Kansas City, but half of their homers have been hit on the road.

Lopez Blasts Pair

Hector Lopez led the fireworks with a pair of circuits that helped him drive in six runs while Harry Simpson, Lou Skizas and Hal Smith each chipped in with one. Bob Lemon, Cleveland's starter, failed to survive the second inning. Ned Garver gave up only three hits and struck out nine over the first eight innings, then weakened in the ninth and needed relief from Virgil Trucks. Roger Maris and Jim Busby homered for Cleveland.

The Yankees also used home runs to good advantage in beating the Orioles, 3-2. Mickey Mantle's homer off Connie Johnson in the eighth decided the contest after Yogi Berra hit a two-run homer in the first inning. Bob Grim picked up the victory after relieving Art Ditmar in the eighth.

Jackie Jensen's 10th inning single scored Billy Klaus from second with the run that gave relief pitcher Ike Delock of the Red Sox a 4-3 decision over the Senators. Ted Williams tied the score in the eighth with his third home run of the season off loser Bob Chakales.

The Detroit-Chicago game was postponed by rain.

Set N.L. Record

A three-run triple by rookie Ed Bouchee followed by a two - run homer off the bat of another rookie, Bob Bowman, highlighted a seven-run sixth inning that gave the Phillies an 8-5 victory over the Pirates. Bob Friend was the victim of both those blows and Stan Lopata also homered off reliever Dick Hall. Southpaw Curt Simmons was the winner although requiring help from Don Cardwell and Bob Miller.

The Cincinnati Redlegs also came up with a seven-run inning in defeating the Chicago Cubs, 9-5, but they did it the hard way with only one hit.

They set a National League record by drawing nine walks in their seven-run fifth, four of the walks forcing in runs. Loser Moe Drabowsky walked four in a row, Jackie Collum yielded three of the passes and Jim Brosnan two. Bob Thurman homered for the Redlegs while Jim Bolger, Cal Neeman and Ernie Banks connected for Chicago. Joe Nuxhall, who pitched the first seven innings, was the winner.

Del Crandall's ninth inning homer off Willard Schmidt gave the Braves their sixth victory in seven starts, an 8-7 triumph over the Cardinals. Joe Adcock, Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews also homered for the Braves while Del Ennis connected for St. Louis.

A passed ball by Wes Westrum enabled the Dodgers to score what proved to be the winning run in a 4-3 victory over the Giants. Gil Hodges scored from third on the passed ball that climaxed a four-run rally for Brooklyn in the fourth.

Monongahela Hi Wins Soccer Title

Monongahela High successfully defended its WPIAL soccer title yesterday by overpowering Scott, 5-0, at Heidleberg.

Pege Legeza paced the champs with two goals. Dave Voelker, Fred Cox and Frank Lomago chipped in with a marker apiece.

The win gave the victors a 9-1 record for the season. Their only loss was to Snowden in a real shocker on Tuesday.

Stengel Credits Grim's Pitching For Early Success

NEW YORK (UP)—Casey Stengel insists his world champion Yankees "haven't had an easy game this season," but Bob Grim's stout relief pitching is doing a lot to make the tough ones easy.

"Grim is pitchin' real good right now," said Stengel in the wake of the Yankees' 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday that saw Grim get the victory in relief. "He's about as good right now as he ever was."

That's saying a huge mouthful, even for the glib Stengel, for Grim's best form is mighty good, indeed—it produced a 20-6 record in his rookie season of 1954.

Had Ailment

The ex-Marine son of a Brooklyn bartender had a lot of trouble "serving 'em up" in 1955 because of elbow trouble and still was only fighting back from that ailment last season.

"He was sharp right near the end of last season, looking just about the way he does now," said Stengel. "I wanted to work him into a starting spot in the World Series, but I had four guys who were pitching complete games for me and I had to use them."

Grim's win over the Orioles, which he gained by allowing just one hit during the last two innings, was his second of the season. He's lost one, too, but as Stengel is quick to point out, a misplayed fly ball was his downfall in that one against the Red Sox last Sunday.

Should Have Won

"Only clean hit off him in that game was a ground ball that just got through the infield," grumbled Casey. "He shouldda won that one, too.

"He's got a real good curve, and a good slider, and he keeps 'em low," Stengel pointed out "That's tough."

Flanagan Easily Beats Kid Gavilan

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Speedy Del Flanagan loomed brighter than ever in the welterweight title picture today after banging out a 10 - round unanimous decision over Kid Gavilan here.

The St. Paul veteran, a 2-1 favorite, reached a peak in his up and down career Wednesday night as he turned aggressor and had the former welterweight king baffled most of the way.

The three officials each gave the classy Irishman a perfect 100 points. Referee Billy McCabe's card scored 100-91, judge Johnny Stanton had the fight 100-92, and judge Dick Delaney scored it 100-93.

Spring Releases of Pheasants Completed

Spring releases of ring-necked pheasants and wild turkeys have been completed in Pennsylvania.

Approximately 9,915 cockbirds and 20,455 hen pheasants were liberated. Also 510 toms and 1,800 hen turkeys were released.

Quail shipments will come to about 3,700 birds, equal sex.

Rabbit trapping reports indicate that, early this year, over 58,000 live rabbits were box trapped in areas restricted to hunting and released in open hunting territory. Of this number, 6,202 were caught on Propagation Areas. Last year a total of 60,470 cottontails were live trapped, and transferred, of which 6,906 were taken on Propagation Areas.

Pheasant chick applications have been received and approved for 67,275 chicks for sportsmen's organizations and 169,205 for farm-game cooperators and farmers with lands open to public hunting.

This makes a total of 236,480 chicks compared with 233,759 shipped last year. All chicks available for this year's program have already been allocated.

Anyone interested in the day-old pheasant chick program for 1958 should contact his District Game Protector in ample time for consideration next year.

Foxy Tricks—

Game Protector Donald Day, Susquehanna County, reports:

"The Wilcoxes are long-time fox hunters living in Montrose. During February they had two unusual experiences while engaged in the sport. The first happened when the dogs broke off the chase in a swamp. It turned out the lost fox had climbed 30 feet into an inclined hemlock. This ruse is not uncommon with the gray but this happened to be a red fox, which is not generally considered a climber.

"The second incident was the killing of a Sampson fox. These freakish animals are reddish-gray and the coat appears fuzzy without many guard hairs. Neither is the tail bushy as with an ordinary fox, but instead short and slender".

Predator Bounties—

Schuylkill County accounted for the largest number of gray foxes, 83, bountied at the Harrisburg office of the Game Commission last month.

Somerset County was second with 69. Armstrong's 63 placed third. Bradford County sent in the most red foxes in that month, 76 Susquehanna was second with 73. Washington placed third with 61. Centre Crawford and Erie Counties each turned in 8 great horned owls, the highest county total in March.

The Game Commission's record shows that valid bounty claims for gray and red foxes and great horned owls are ahead of this time last year. Ending March 31 the first ten months of the present fiscal year showed claims for 9,854 gray fox pelts compared to 9,655 on that date in 1956. Red fox claims were 14,651 compared to 13,216 for the same ten month period of last year. Great horned owl claims for the ten months numbered 950, whereas they totaled 788 one year earlier.

Game News—

Among recent orders for the Pennsylvania Game Commission's official publication were two of interesting contrast.

From the State of New Hampshire came a paid subscription order for 37 Conservation Officers of the Fish and Game Department. The Warden of the California State Prison at San Quentin requested that the Commission add the Pennsylvania Game News to the reading matter offered "guests" of the institution.

Both the order and the request were included in the mailing of the April issue of the magazine.

School Bus Use Wins Approval

HARRISBURG (UP) — Go. George M. Leader today studied legislation to permit school buses to transport student spectators to school athletic events.

The bill cleared the Legislature Wednesday night when the state Senate gave its approval 27-20, in a vote which crossed party lines. Opponents of the bill contended private bus firms which run chartered services will suffer financially if the measure becomes law.

Currently school buses may be used only for transportation of students to and from school or to carry the school's athletic teams to scheduled contests.

School Bus Comment

HARRISBURG (UP)—The chairman of the House Education Committee said today proposals to allow parochial students to ride public school buses resulted in the "most critical comment" since legislation was introduced to require mandatory anti-polio shots for school children.

Rep. Marian E Markley (R-Lehigh) said the introduction of the two House bills resulted in a "flood of letters, telegrams and phone calls."

"Most seem to be against parochial students using public school bus facilities," Mrs. Markley said "However, very few mention the religious aspect. They merely contend they are against the practice in principle."

Two bills were introduced earlier to require polio immunization before children could attend elementary schools. The proposals touched off a statewide controversy and are still in Mrs Markley's committee, with their future "uncertain."

The parochial student bills were sponsored by Rep William F. Renwick (D-Elk) after St. Mary's area school directors ruled parochial pupils would have to pay for riding on the school buses.

Mrs Markley told Renwick the legislation would be considered when her committee holds its next meeting but said she had "no idea" what action would be taken.

Wants Increase For Magistrates

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Legislature has been asked to increase the yearly salary of magistrates from $7,500 to $12,000.

The bipartisan bill was sponsored by Philadelphia Reps. Thomas A. Frascella and Francis X. Muldowney, both Democrats, and Republicans Austin M. Lee and Daniel Carson.

Radio Station Gets in Mess Over 'Bubbles'

SALEM, Va. (UP)—A local radio station almost had an "invasion from Mars" panic on its hands and manager M. C. Bowers admitted today that "it was a mess," but was all in fun.

Announcer Don McGraw of WBLU casually told listeners Tuesday night that "strange bubbles" were seen emerging from a lake near here, presumably from a "submarine" that had been spotted. He mentioned it again Wednesday as a jok.

Bowers said McGraw's listeners "didn't take it that way." They swamped his station, and other stations, newspapers and police in the area, with telephone calls.

One woman said she heard a space ship had fallen into the lake and that "strange monsters" were roaming the banks

Bowers said the station began making announcements that it was all a joke

"It was a mess but it wasn't a publicity stunt or a hoax, just some fun," he said.

Diplomatic Changes Face Senate Fight

WASHINGTON (UP—An ironic twist of fate will be unfolded soon in the U.S. Senate. The principal characters are Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen and Scott McLeod, two of President Eisenhower's recent diplomatic appointments.

Four years ago almost to the day the Senate was engaged in a hot argument over Bohlen's fitness to be ambassador to Moscow. McLeod, new State Department security officer and a former FBI agent, claimed to have found derogatory information against Bohlen.

The tables now have turned somewhat. McLeod's nomination to be ambassador to Ireland is being attacked by Democrats who claim he is unfit to serve in such a role. Those Republicans who opposed Bohlen's appointment as ambassador to Moscow four years ago are voicing their opposition again to his nomination to be ambassador to the Philippines.

Hearings on both appointments will be held about April 30 by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The hearings are being called after more than 30 other recent diplomatic appointments have been approved without question. Their proximity in time suggests to some Washington officials that McLeod may, in effect, be approved for the Dublin post with an indirect assist from Bohlen's supporters.

Bohlen's backers don't relish seeing the veteran career diplomat subjected to another ordeal where his security again would be questioned. Aside from voicing some complaints, they may be willing to take it easy on McLeod.

The Bohlen case of four years ago is still somewhat of a mystery. Republicans generally complained he had been too close to previous Democratic administrations despite his career status.

But the late Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) charged in the Senate on March 20, 1953, that McLeod had been "unable to clear" Bohlen "on the basis of information received from the FBI." Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said he had known for years about Bohlen's FBI file. He said calling Bohlen a "security risk" was "putting it too weak."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles assured the Senate Foreign Relations Committee than that an FBI investigation left "no doubt" Bohlen was loyal and no security risk.

There is no doubt McLeod felt strongly about opposing Bohlen's appointment. He took his case to the White House—going over Dulles' head. John R. Beal, a recent Dulles biographer, wrote that "McLeod's insubordination" so angered Dulles he almost fired McLeod.

French President To Be Speaker At Lafayette

EASTON, Pa. (UP) — Lafayette College announced today that President Rene Coty of France will speak at commencement exercises here June 8 as part of the 200th anniversary celebration of the birth of the Marquis de Lafayette, for whom the school was named.

Coty has been invited by President Eisenhower to make a state visit to the United States in June. He will head a number of French and American dignitaries to attend ceremonies at the school here.

The college was founded in 1824; shortly after Lafayette had made a farewell visit to the United States at the invitation of President Monroe.

The citizens of Easton decided to name the college after the marquis "as a testimony of respect for the talents, virtues and signal services of Gen. Lafayette in the great cause of freedom."

State to Expand Facilities at Bendigo Park

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader announced today that plans have been completed for the expansion of facilities at Bendigo State Park in Elk County.

Completion of the expansion program is scheduled for early 1958.

The park is within easy commuting distance of Kane, Ridgway, Johnsonburg, St. Marys, Emporium and Smethport. It is several miles north of Johnsonburg off highway routes 219 and 255.

UP Plans to Expand Service in Future

NEW YORK (UP)—Frank H. Bartholomew, president and general manager of United Press, said yesterday that as it plans for the future the U. P. keeps "clearly in mind the principles of freedom and independence which brought this great global service into being" 50 years ago this June.

"We must continue to be willing to experiment with any new system or approach which offers hope of still better performance in the great job of covering the world," Bartholomew told U.P. executives meeting in conjunction with the 71st annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn.

"Open-minded willingness to try the untried served us well in 1907," he said, "and we don't propose to put on blinders or lapse into comfortable routine in 1957 or the years ahead."

'56 A Big Year

Bartholomew said in his annual report, made public Tuesday night, that U.P. correspondents and photographers covered more big news in 1956 than in any year since the Korean War.

Mims Thomason, vice-president and general business manager, reported that United Press had a net gain of 179 clients during the past year and now serves 4,833 newspapers, radio and television stations throughout the world.

"The year just past has been an exceptional one in our operation," Bartholomew said, "and the record gives us a strong starting point for the half century ahead."

Bartholomew said that during 1956 the U.P. performance on spot news reporting and in coverage in depth "was really magnificent."

Cites "Vivid" Reporting

"We are proud of the 25 awards and citations our men and women earned in the year just finished," he said.

The U.P. president said that despite a hundred-fold increase in the problems and complexities of newspaper publishing during the past 50 years, "The principal function of newspaper publishing is unchanged—to provide the people with the best possible coverage of the world in which we live."

Earl J. Johnson, vice-president and general news manager, reported on big news developments both at home and abroad.

Johnson said United Press deployed its forces rapidly when the Hungarian revolt broke out and "some of the most vivid reporting of the year came out of that story."

Best Election Coverage

When the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt and the Israeli-Egyptian fighting broke out, he said, "Our resident staffs in the Mideast were reinforced for this story by such well-known by-liners as Robert Musel and Peter Webb."

Domestically, he said, the stories of greatest continuing interest were the political conventions, the presidential election and the integration controversy.

"On the night of the election," Johnson said, "the tabulation of the nationwide vote probably was the surest and swiftest in the history of United Press."

He said plans for the future "call for increased emphasis on explaining not only what happened, but why it happened."

Electrical Wire Firms in Merger

PITTSBURGH (UP)—H K. Porter Company announced Tuesday it has purchased Federal Wire & Cable Co., Ltd., Canada's fourth largest electrical wire and cable manufacturer.

Orders Increase At Westinghouse

NEW YORK (UP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. reported today that first quarter bookings of new orders were the largest for the period in the firm's history.

"Although sales billed for the past two quarters have averaged nearly a half billion dollars, negotiations for new business continue very active, and our backlog of orders for apparatus, industrial and atomic products is now at a record level," Gwilym A. Price, board chairman and president, told a directors meeting.

Sales billed by the company in the first three months of 1957 amounted to $475,686,000 and net income was $14,198,000, equal to 82 cents a common share.

The Student Council of the Perry-Lower Tyrone High School sponsored a series of Easter programs last week. Taking part were the following students.

High School Seniors Pace Floors

WASHINGTON (UP)—For about 700,000 high school seniors and their families, the next three weeks will be a period of fingernail-biting and floor-pacing.

The seniors are waiting for word on whether they've been accepted for admission to college. Most schools mail out notices during late April and early May.

The U.S. Office of Education estimates that slightly more than half of this year's 1,358,000 high school graduates have applied for enrollment in college. The vast majority will get in somewhere, eventually. But many will have to settle for their second, third or even fourth choice of institutions.

Wherever they enroll, next fall's freshmen will pay the highest price in history for their crack at higher education. A government survey recently showed that the cost of attending college has approximately doubled since 1940.

Average Outlay $2,000

Undergraduates at state universities and other public institutions will pay an average of about $1,500 each next year for tuition, books, room, board, clothes, travel, recreation and incidental expenses. In private colleges, the average outlay will run close to $2,000 a year.

The one confident prediction that can be made about this situation is that it will get worse before it gets better.

College enrollment, already at an all-time high of three million, is expected to climb from five to ten per cent a year until it reaches about six million by 1970.

The current pressure on facilities for higher education is largely due to the fact that a larger percentage of American youths are seeking college degrees than in the past. The proportion of youths in the 18 to 21 age group who enroll in college has increased from 1.7 per cent in 1870 to about 33 per cent this year.

Not Yet Affected

The sharp rise in the U.S. birth rate after World War II, which has swamped public schools with students, has not yet affected college enrollments. This year's high school graduating class consists mainly of youths born in 1939, a year in which total U.S. births were 2,466,000.

Starting about 1960, freshman classes will come from the substantially larger baby crops of World War II. And by 1966, these 3,637,000 babies born in 1948 will be of college age. Thereafter the trend is steadily up.

Barring a reversal of long-term economic trends, the cost of going to college is likely to keep on rising, along with enrollments.

Wheeling Steel Sales Are Up, Earnings Down

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — Wheeling Steel Corp. President J. L. Neudoerfer told the annual meeting of stockholders today that the firm believes "favorable performance and further progress will be recorded in 1957."

Neudoerfer said the steel industry is "experiencing a change in the tempo of demand for many types of steel" which has lowered the operating rate.

"Because of its diversification of markets and production facilities, Wheeling's operating rate and earnings opportunities are not expected to be unduly affected by this adjustment period," he said.

The company reported first quarter sales totaled 71,344,000, up $3,500,000 over the same period of 1956. However, earnings in the first three months of $4,599,000, or $2.12 per common share after provision for preferred dividends, dropped from the $5,280,000, or $2.50 per common share, reported in the first quarter of 1956.

Neudoerfer said the decrease in net income was the result of higher costs and the disruption of operations by construction and improvement projects, and two wildcat strikes at one of the firm's producing units.

Corn and Beets Prove To Be Favorite Foods

It is always delightful in the spring to find some favorite fresh vegetables selling at a comparatively low price, and to indulge in asparagus, for instance.

Besides the garden market products there are certain canned foods on the plentiful list. Corn and beets are among these. As it so happens, most people count these favorites. Choose either the whole kernel or the cream-style corn. Canned beets have largely replaced the use of fresh beets on the menu in the past few years. They can be found in whole, sliced, diced, quartered or slivered style.

Both corn and beets retain much of their natural flavor during the canning process and, for this reason as well as for their convenience, folks like to use them in menus alternately with other vegetables that may be in fresh or frozen form. Dress corn with butter or cream, or use it for a pudding.

To the heated beets add melted or browned butter flavored sometimes with lemon juice or a vinaigrette dressing that is not unlike that served with salad except that it is heated. Orange juice is also good with beets.

BEETS WITH ORANGE JUICE

1 can sliced beets
2 tablespoons flour
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons butter

Place beets with liquor in greased casserole. Mix flour, sugar, salt and orange juice and pour over beeets. Dot with butter and bake in moderatly hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

CORN AND DRIED BEEF

2½ cups whole kernel corn
1 jar (2½ ounces) dried beef, shredded
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 can cream of mushroom soup
Buttered hot toast or biscuits

Drain corn and reserve liquid for gravy. Saute corn and beef in butter until slightly browned. Stir in flour until browned. Add soup and corn liquid gradually, stirring until mixture thickens. Serve on hot toast or biscuits. Yield: 6 servings.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

WHEN STRAWBERRIES COME TO TOWN, you can bet shortcake's not far behind — in Mother's menu making. This old-fashioned kind is still top favorite: buttered biscuit layers hugging plump, juicy berries and heaped high with whipped cream.

Strawberry Shortcake Is Favorite Spring Dessert

Strawberry shortcake is a favorite American dessert. We always look forward to it when fine berries become plentiful in market. Once upon a time we had to wait for the local strawberry crop but today, some of the finest fruit begins coming all the way from California in early April.

Edith Barber

When the markets are well stocked, prices lower and sometimes thay are less than those asked for local fruit when it arrives in market. Then is when we become hungry for a good old-fashioned shortcake. The base for this is a rich biscuit dough to which may or may not be added an egg, as you like.

After the dough is baked, it is split and berries crushed slightly with sugar are put between the layers. Some are reserved for the top. Of course, the dough should be baking while we are eating our first course at a meal and the final touches to the shortcake made just before serving.

As an accompaniment, there may be plain or whipped cream, according to taste that is always definite in regard to this. Occasionally, you will find someone who paints the lily by serving ice cream on the side!

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

1 quart strawberries
½ cup sugar
1 recipe shortcake dough

Wash berries, reserve 12 for garnish, and hull remainder. Crush berries and add sugar. Split baked shortcake, and spread crushed fruit between layers and over top. Garnish with the whole berries and serve with plain or whipped cream. Note: Add more sugar if berries are very tart. Hard sauce or cream may be mixed with the berries.

SHORTCAKE DOUGH

3 cups sifted flour
4½ teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup shortening
¾ cup milk (about)
2 tablespoons softened butter

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or 2 knives. Stir in milk gradually, mixing just enough to make a smooth dough. Divide dough in half. Pat one half in 7-inch pan, spread with butter, and put other half, patted to fit, on top. Bake in hot oven (450 degree F.) 15 to 20 minutes. For individual shortcakes, pat dough in 12 2-inch rounds. Put together with butter. Place on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (450 degree F.) about 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Tasty Recipes

ROLLED STUFFED FILLETS AND CORN CASSEROLE

2 cups (17-ounce can) whole kernel corn
1-3 cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped pimiento
¼ cup instant minced onion
½ cup bread cubes
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon celery seed
¾ cup soft break crumbs
4 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon crumbled whole marjoram leaves
1 pound halibut fillets
Pimiento strips for garnish

Drain corn and mix with next 7 ingredients. Turn into a 1-quart casserole. Set aside. Combine bread crumbs with 3 tablespoons of the butter or margarine, the teaspoon salt, black pepper and marjoram. Mix well. Spread crumb mixture over fillets. Roll up in jelly-roll fashion. Fasten ends with toothpicks. Place over corn. Cover and bake in a preheated moderate over (350 degree F.) 20 to 40 minutes or until done. Remove cover and brush fillets with remaining 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Place under broiler until fillets are lightly browned. Garnish with pimiento strips. Yield: 6 servings.

Curdling of Hollandaise Can Be Prevented

When fresh asparagus comes to the market, first from California and then from the South, folks are tempted to indulge in this expensive treat.

Annually at this season there are requests for foolproof recipes for hollandaise sauce. This is somewhat of a luxury as it takes a great deal of butter, but asparagus deserves this treatment. This particular sauce has a reputation of being difficult to make. This is not true if directions are well followed.

A small saucepan should be used. After half the butter has been added to the egg yolk, the mixture should be stirred, preferably with a small whisk or slotted spoon. The saucepan should be held above the boiling water and not allowed to touch it. When the mixture is well blended and slightly thickened, the remaining butter should be added while stirring constantly.

As soon as the sauce has thickened again, the saucepan should be taken away from the water. Beating may continue until just the right texture has been reached the right texture has been reached. By this method the curdling that results from cooking over too high a heat or for too long a time will be prevented.

If, however, directions have not been followed exactly and the sauce begins to separate, a tablespoonful of heavy cream should be beaten in drop by drop, and it will usually return to smoothness. It will not be quite so thick as if it had not curdled.

An easier sauce to make and one even better than hollandaise is Michael Sauce.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

½ cup butter
2 eggs yolks, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dash of cayenne

Divide butter in 2 portions and put 1 piece in small saucepan with slightly beaten egg yolks and lemon juice. Hold saucepan over a larger pan containing hot — but not boiling — water and stir constantly until butter is melted. Add remaining butter and stir until sauce thickens. Remove from heat and season with cayenne. Serve at once.

Most Teachers Permitted to Use Paddles if They Deem Necessary

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP)—The 3 R's can still be taught to the tune of a hickory stick in three-fourths of the nation's schools.

That is the surprise finding of a nationwide survey of school discipline just completed by the National Education Association.

The survey also showed teachers generally are far less disturbed about behavior of today's school children than some outsiders who think juvenile delinquency runs rampant in the classroom. More than 90 per cent of the teachers covered rated their students "well behaved."

The NEA's research division sent questionnaires to 10,000 teachers. They were selected by the "random sample" method to provide a representative cross-section of the nation's more than one million public school teachers.

Dr. Sam Lambert, head of the research division, said the replies repudiated a popular idea that corporal punishment is a vanishing feature of American school life.

Have Personal Authority

Nearly half the teachers said they personally had authority to administer whippings to unruly pupils if they considered it necessary. And 75 per cent said the principal of their school had such authority.

The NEA did not ask right out how extensively corporal punishment is actually used. But it learned through a roundabout question that most teachers consider "spanking rights" a necessary feature of running an orderly classroom.

To the question, "Do you think classroom teachers should be allowed to administer corporal punishment to pupils in elementary-school grades?" 77 per cent of the teachers replied yes. Two-thirds also held out for spanking rights in junior high school while 37 per cent said whipping should be permitted even in high school.

Taking these replies as a gauge of teacher sentiment toward actual use of corporal punishment, Lambert said:

"It is evident that boys and girls are still getting lickings in a great many schools in the United States."

Blackboard Jungle

Seeking to find out whether "blackboard jungle" conditions prevail in many schools, the questionnaire asked whether teachers had been subjected during the past year to any "act of physical violence" by a student.

Sixteen teachers out of every 1,000 said they personally had experienced such an attack. Another 11 per cent said they knew of a violent attack on another teacher in their school.

Analysis of replies by type of school district showed the highest incidence of serious misbehavior, including attacks on teachers, in congested city areas.

Noisy Frogs Holding Own Against Propriety

BRENTWOOD, Md. (UP) — A noisy gang of lecherous frogs held their own today against the forces of propriety.

But Mayor William H. Smith said they are merely on probation and had better watch out.

The frogs, who are in the middle of their mating season, have been disporting with gusto and much loud croaking in a pond in this Washington suburb.

Earlier this week 83-year-old Mrs. Mary Harman, who lives next door, demanded for the second year in a row that the police break it up. She complained that the frogs were "disorderly and carrying on" every night until midnight.

Nary A Croak

Police said they couldn't catch the frogs being disorderly and turned the problem over to the mayor. The mayor said that in two trips to the pond in the last two days he hasn't seen a frog or heard a croak.

However, he said if he gets more complaints from other neighbors he will get tough.

"I like frogs," he said. "But if I have to, I'll ask the man who owns the pond to get rid of them. I'll do everything I can to keep peace."

William J. Miller, who has the pond in his backyard, said he didn't know anything about the frogs.

Just Moved In

"I didn't put them there," he said. "They just moved in."

But Mrs. Harman charged Miller "keeps the pond filled with water for them."

"And he used to keep pigeons," she said. "All the time they were cooing. Now all the time the frogs are croaking. He's a terrible man."

The mayor said he felt certain that if necessary Miller would permit extermination of the frogs.

"He was very cooperative about the pigeons," the mayor said. "He had a big loft of them and used to race them, but he got rid of them when I asked him.

"Of course, I'd have to do the asking about the frogs. If Mrs. Harman did it I think he'd start feeding them."

Warns Newspapers To Train Recruits

NEW YORK (UP) — The journalism profession is running out of first class recruits because it has failed to sell itself to American youth, the American Newspapers Publishers Assn. was told today.

In an address before the ANPA's annual convention, Otto A. Silha, vice president and business manager of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, said daily newspapers need about 30 per cent more apprentices than they now have or are allowed by contract to have.

He warned the 1,200 American and Canadian publishers attending the convention that "things are going to get worse" unless the newspaper industry wakes up to the necessity of creating personnel departments, canvassing colleges for likely apprentices, and educating youth to the employment opportunities in the newspaper field.

Panel Discussion Held

Silha's speech was the highlight of the final session of the three-day convention at the Waldorf-Asteria Hotel. It was the keynote to a panel discussion of "The Newspaper of Today and the Future," moderated by D. Tennant Bryan, president and publisher of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader and Times-Dispatch.

Panel speakers included Grant C. Stone, advertising director of the Cleveland (Ohio) Press; Walter Aronoff, circulation manager of the Detroit (Mich.) Times; Philip Hochstein, editor of the Newark (N.J.) Star-Ledger; and Richard C. Steele, general manager and business manager of the Worcester (Mass.) Telegram and Gazette.

The Bureau of Advertising awarded bronze plaques Wednesday to 10 leaders in the newspaper advertising field for contributions to the advancement of their industry. They were George C. Biggers Jr., of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution; Ernest A. Doepke Jr., Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot and News; Charles G. Fenn, London (Ont.) Free Press; Emile A. Hartford, Los Angeles Times; Eugene J. Lemcoe, Houston (Tex.) Post; Joseph P. Lynch, Washington Post and Times Herald; Stephen P. Mahoney, Burke, Kuipers and Mahoney; John W. Moffett, Minneapolis Star and Tribune; LeRoy F. Newmyer, Toledo Blade and Times, and Joseph R. Scolaro, Meeker and Scott.

Fats Found not Important

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP)—Some people develop a fault in their blood chemistry and some don't, and that is the reason why some people's arteries "harden" too soon and they have heart attacks while in their prime.

This "suggestion" comes from the most minute examination of the intricate chemistry of blood fats to date. The net result of the research so far makes it seem that fats or lack of fats in what people eat are not important in the "hardening" of arteries.

The examination was made possible by new chemistry technique, "gas-liquid chromatography," devised only last year by two British biochemists. It permits the isolation and analysis of fatty acids of the blood which haven't been isolated and so closely studied before.

Four scientists took blood samples from 12 persons with "coronary-artery disease" beyond any questioning, since they had had heart attacks. Not one was more than 51 years old. The scientists also took blood samples from 12 persons who did not have "coronary-artery disease" beyond any questioning, since they had had heart attacks. Not one was more than 51 years old. The scientists also took blood samples from 12 persons who did not have "coronary-artery disease" since they hadn't had heart attacks. These 12 were "matched" with the other 12 as to sex and age.

By the new technique, the scientists examined the fatty acids compositions of the red blood cells, of the phospholipids of the blood plasma which are fatty acids in association with phosphoric acid, and of the fraction of plasma which is soluble only in acetone.

No Significant Differences

In the first two categories, they found no significant differences between the blood of people who had coronary-artery disease and the people who didn't. But in the composition of the hitherto chemically mysterious acetone-soluble fraction they found differences "verging" on significance.

This was particularly so in the much higher ratio of the unsaturated acid, oleic acid, to its corresponding saturated acid, stearic acid, in the heart attack patients. The existence of this difference, reported the four scientists, "suggests that the disease may be a consequence of some fault of metabolism rather than of diet as is usually held."

Challenges Popular Theory

This challenged the currently popular fatty diet theory of the beginnings of the chemical processes whose end results are the depositing of hardening plaques on the linings of arteries that narrows their diameters. The research also challenged the theory that there are "essential fatty acids" and, therefore, some fat is required in the diet.

However, the research has not yet gone far enough for these "suggestions" to be anything more than suggestions. For instance, the acetone soluble fraction is a mixture of glycerides and cholesterol esters. These two lipids must now be separated and studied separately.

Turnpike Name Change Doubtful

HARRISBURG (UP)—The fate of a bill to change the names of some Pennsylvania Turnpike interchanges was in doubt today after the proposal stalled short of Senate passage.

Amendments added by senators would change the titles of 12 additional interchanges.

Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland) has led the fight against the wholesale switch. When the bill was placed on the Senate postponed calendar Wednesday, Dent predicted the move meant the bill's death for this session.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear brother, brother-in-law and uncle, William DiFlorio, Jr., who was killed by an automobile two years ago today, April 25, 1955.
It's lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Gone from us that smiling face,
Those carefree happy ways,
The heart that won so many friends,
In bygone happy days.
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Vesio and Children.

In loving memory of our dear nephew and cousin, William DiFlorio, Jr., who was killed by an automobile two years ago today, April 25, 1955.
Our aching hearts are calling
To the shadows dark and gray,
For the dear one who left us
Just two years ago today.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch.
We shall never lose sweet memories
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by Aunts, Uncles and Cousins

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, William DiFlorio, Jr., who was killed by an automobile two years ago today, April 25, 1955.
Two lonely years have passed away
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well.
Your end was sudden,
It made us weep and cry,
But, oh, the saddest part of all
You never said goodbye.
God gave us strength and courage
To carry the blow, but what it means to miss you
God will only know.
Sadly missed by Mother, Father and sister, Audrey

In loving memory of our dear nephew and cousin, William DiFlorio, Jr., who was killed by an automobile two years ago today, April 25, 1955.
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by Uncle Alex and Cousin Judy.

Somerset Area Hit By Storm

By UNITED PRESS

Severe spring storms hit scattered areas of Western Pennsylvania Wednesday night causing flash floods, wind damage and at least one death.

A 15-year-old girl was killed by lightning near Apollo in Armstrong County. Streams overflowed in Venango and Somerset counties, forcing at least five families to flee their homes and blocking a main highway. Three structures were damaged by high winds in Lawrence County.

Cloudbursts dumped up to three inches of rain within an hour at Bethel in Venango County and in the southern area of Somerset.

Rte. 219 was closed between Garrett and Meyersdale from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. and a landslide blocked the same route between Garrett and Berlin. Road crews worked for three hours to restore one-way traffic and cleanup operations were still underway this morning.

Creeks Surge Over

The storm which hit Bethel, north of Titusville, sent Thompson's Creek, Church Run and Oil Creek surging over their banks.

At Titusville, where all three streams meet, two streets in the business district were inundated and closed until the water receded several hours later. Basements of a number of business houses were flooded and firemen were called to pump them out.

Waters of Thompson's Run reached living-room level in five homes at Hydetown, north of Titusville. Constable Theodore Regal said water flowed two inches deep over the floors of his home. It also poured through the windows of his automobile, which was parked outside.

In the Bethel area, farmers waded waist-deep in the flood waters to rescue six herds of cattle which were trapped by a flash flood. A large barn was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire at Grandville, 13 miles northwest of Titusville.

"Baby Tornadoes" Strike

At Pulaski in Lawrence County, winds which residents described as "baby tornadoes" whipped the area. The steeple of the Presbyterian Church, in the center of the community, was damaged. A partially-built home and a garage were flattened.

The lightning victim was Jean Kowalkowski, 15, twin daughter of an Apollo farmer. When a storm broke, she hurried into a field to bring her father's cows to the barn, because a veterinarian had warned they should not be left in rain.

Somerset Borough and its surrounding area were plunged into darkness for a half hour when lightning hit a 23,000-volt power line. A barn also was struck and destroyed by fire in Jenner Twp. with a loss estimated at $15,000.

Legislators Ask Editors For Help

WASHINGTON (UP — A House Information subcommittee asked the nations leading editors and publishers today for help in its fight against Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's information orders.

The action was the latest round in the subcommittee's long quarrel with Wilson over his department's practices on release of information not involving national security.

Subcommittee Chairman John E. Moss (D-Calif.) said Congress may have to pass legislation specifically designed to curb Defense Department secrecy unless the department itself reverses what Moss called its "current trend" toward greater secrecy.

He asked a picked list of editors and publishers for their advice and suggestions on what such legislation should contain.

Wilson accused the subcommittee Wednesday of undermining "the constitutional separation of powers" between Congress and the executive branch of government.

What drew Wilson's fire was an announcement by Moss and three other Democrats that they were sponsoring legislation to blast a hole in the government's "paper curtain of secrecy." Moss cited Wilson as one official who has abused a "loophole" in existing laws to further restrict military information to Congress.

Moss said the proposed bill would plug this loophole as used by the Defense Department and other government agencies.

Today, in his appeal for help from the editors and publishers, Moss suggested that specific legislation aimed at the Defense Department may be necessary. He sent the news executives copies of Wilson's most recent directives on how department officials should deal with releasing information to Congress and the press.

In an accompanying note, Moss told the editors and publishers Wilson's directives raised "a number of danger signals." He said they could have a "far-reaching effect" on the people's right to information about the Defense Department.

The "era of good fee ing" was a period in American history from 1817 to 1823 in the administration of James Monroe.

Tony Randall Shrugs Off Hollywood Fame

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Tony Randall, a popular fixture on the "Mr Peepers" TV show for three years, has been "discovered" by the movies as a bright new comedy find, but this added fame he shrugs off.

"The fan reaction to my TV appearances was much bigger," he yawned. "But Hollywood has closed its eyes to TV. It's the enemy, I guess.

"The other day somebody wanted to know why movie theater audiences who see 'Oh Men, Oh Women' laugh when I come on before I say a word I told him that after all I'd appeared in more than 200 comedies on TV. He didn't understand.

"Another fellow at the studio says now that I'm in the movies I'll be known in Dubuque. I refrained from asking him about the millions who saw the 200 TV shows I've done."

Being used to acclaim from his TV fans, Randall took it in stride when producer-director Nunnally Johnson saw him in the play, "Inherit The Wind," and tapped him for the movie, "Oh Men, Oh Women."

Randall shared the film with such big Hollywood names as Tone and Ginger Rogers but he wound up with the most back-patting from the critics. Twentieth Century-Fox Studio promptly signed the pride of Tulsa, Okla., to a contract and plans to make him Fox' answer to Columbia's Jack Lemmon.

Randall's reaction to his new contract: "Well, people often tell me I look like Lemmon or Orson Bean. When Bean did "Charley's Aunt" on TV I got more compliments for it."

To his smash "Oh Men Oh Women" role: It was one of the best parts ever written. Any actor who'd turn down that part is out of his head. Whoever played it would be successful. Nobody ever made a hit without a terrific role."

Your Health—

Is Well Water Best For Your Health?

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Popular belief to the contrary, well water as a rule is not any more value to you than any other purified drinking water.

Some waters actually contain more minerals than others. And some authorities frankly disagree on the value of such minerals to the body's general health.

But as for well water in general, its mineral content is so low that you would have to consume many gallons each day to get any real benefit from it.

In fact, the Illinois Department of Public Health has some interesting figures on the matter. A study shows that one gallon of milk has the mineral equivalent of a bathtub full of ordinary Illinois well water.

We would have to drink 65 glassfuls of this water to replace the daily calcium loss of the body.

Four stalks of celery contain the calcium equivalent of 30 glasses. And it would take 20 glassfuls to provide the calcium obtained in 2½ cups of cooked spinach.

The ordinary lunch of potatoes, vegetables, meat and dessert supplies the body with as much mineral matter as we could get from drinking 250 glasses of water.

Now don't get me wrong. Water is vital for life and you should get plenty. But the fellow with a well in his back yard does not have any better water than you city folk who get your purified water from a lake, river or municipal reservoir.

Question and Answer

L.L.: What are the symptoms of menopause? I have hot flashes and have the urge to keep on walking without ever stopping.

Answer: Hot flashes, suffocating feelings, severe headache and pounding of the heart, as well as nervous symptoms, rheumatism in its many forms and upsets in digestion and disturbances in the circulation are frequent complaints of women during menopause.

If you are experiencing any of these difficulties, it is suggested that you seek the advice of your physician.

To Build Belgium Plant

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Westinghouse Electric International Company announced Tuesday it will build an 11,500-kilowatt atomic power plant for Belgium.

The company said the plant will be installed near Brussels at Mol, center of the country's atomic research, and will provide power by the end of 1959.

Westinghouse said the contract was signed in Brussels Tuesday and was the first agreement calling for the export of an atomic power unit.

Components for the plant will be manufactured at Westinghouse plants in East Pittsburgh, Chesswick and Lester, Pa., Elmira, N.Y., and Baltimore, Md.

West Penn Power to Spend $61 Million for Expansion

Expansion and improvement in the West Newton, Belle Vernon and Fairhope areas will feature part of a West Penn Power Co. program which is expected to cost $61 million in 1957-58, it was announced today.

A substantial portion of the West Penn Power financing program has been completed to set the stage for the biggest two-year construction and expansion program in the local utility's history.

A common stock issue of about $12,450,000, the first phase of the financing, was completed this month. Additional securities planned for later this year will provide more of the funds necessary for such an expansion of facilities.

The $35 million scheduled for 1957 will be the largest single-year expenditure in company history for additional and improved facilities.

Greatly increased use of electric service, coupled with future needs of West Penn's 365,000 customers in an 8,775-square mile service area in Western and North Central Pennsylvania, will require the huge expansion program.

Charleroi district manager Alex R. Newell, in disclosing the major details of the expansion, said the improvements will affect just about every point in the area served by West Penn.

Currently, West Penn's largest single project is the additional generating capacity to be provided by the new Armstrong Power Station north of Kittanning.

The first 165,000-kilowatt generating unit is scheduled to go "on-the-line" in the early summer of 1958, to be followed by another unit of about the same size.

Other power station construction of a nature that does not affect total generating capacity includes projects at Springdale, Mitchell and Windsor power stations.

Several projects involving expenditures in the vicinity of a half million dollars, all or part of which is planned for 1957, include:

A major substation with connecting lines on the western edge of Washington, a new substation adjacent to Connellsville Power Station, an additional line and increased capacity at Butler, a new substation and lines on the edge of Latrobe, another new substation and lines near Irwin, and still another new substation and related line improvements near Elizabeth.

The West Newton and Belle Vernon area work is expected to cost approximately $50,000.

Here's Good News; Less Castor Oil

WASHINGTON (UP) — Here's good news for the kids: The world is running out of castor oil.

The Commerce Department said today that in the next four years castor bean demand will far outstrip the supply. The department blamed it all on new commercial uses for castor oil—particularly in the production of new nylon synthetics.

American Tourists Watch Their Money

By LARRY COLLINS

ROME (UP)—"American tourists just ain't the same anymore. They just ain't got any more big spenders over there."

The authority for this is Frank Maniscotti, who for eight years has been perfecting his Brooklynese English while peddling to American tourists in the shadows of the colisseum and guiding them to after-hours night spots.

"Two, three years ago, they came here, they had a good time, they spend, spend, spend," Frank said.

"Now all they think about is money. I don't know what's happened over there. They just ain't the same Americans I used to know.

"You take them to a shop, and do they look at the stuff the guy got? No. They start complaining about the prices. Right away, they complain about prices."

Frank said that this "lack of money" and the growing fear of tourists for "sidewalk men" has ruined his trade.

"Trouble with this town," he said, "is we got too many crooks.

"Everybody goes back to America and talks about all the bandits we got on the street over here. Now it's getting so bad these American tourists jump three feet when you go near 'em. Think you want to pick their pocket.

"There are a lot of street crooks around, but the cops are getting onto them now.

"I know a guy who used to sell Parker pens down by the forum. In 1953 he was selling 20 pens a day for $5 a head. Now he can't make enough to cover his fines."

(Note: The "Parker pens" in question were Japanese imitations which wrote just long enough for the vendor to duck behind the nearest marble pillar).

"But the real trouble is," Frank moaned, "they just ain't got any more big spenders over there.

"After the war, in '50, '51, '52, we got the money people over here. Most of them for the first time are in Italy, so they cut loose, had a ball.

"Now we get 'em the second time around. Or get the ones that have been saving for 10 years for the trip.

"The ones that's been here before think they know it all. What do they need a guide for, they say. After all, they can even say 'arrivederci Roma'.

"And the new first-timers count every little lira like it was a dollar bill."

"I wish," said Frank as a tourist gave him the cold eye. "I would have been a painter."
